NO. 225—SEVENTY-SIXTH YEAR VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 31, 1934 EIGHTEEN PAGES

THREAT MADE AGAINST ROOSEVELT FAMILY

GENERAL STRIKE IN TEXTILE INDUSTRY ORDERED BY UNION

Walkout Orders Issued Following Refusal of Employers to Discuss Peace Terms—Instructions Telegraphed to Close Mills Employing Half Million Workers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP).—A general strike in the United States cotton textile industry, a walkout threatening to bite into the economic structure of textile communities from Maine to Alabama, was ordered today by the United Textile Workers of America.

The strike call—setting zero hour at 11:30 Saturday night—was labor's answer to the refusal of manufacturers to meet with them before the National Labor Relations Board.

Even with the intervention of President Roosevelt apparently the last resort for preventing the strike, the Labor Board today kept up its efforts. Chairman Lloyd Garrison arranged a conference with George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, who previously had refused to meet with the strikers.

MAKES NO PROGRESS

Chairman Lloyd Garrison conferred, first with the union committee and later with George A. Sloan, chairman of the Cotton Textile Institute, but finally reported, obviously regretfully, that the board would not "report that any substantial progress had been made."

Nevertheless, Garrison and the administration were as determinedly in the picture as were industry and labor. He was thinking of the appointment of a neutral committee of three to inquire into the fundamental causes of the strike and possibly make recommendations for its settlement.

LARGEST STRIKE

Directly or indirectly affected by the walkout, the largest yet faced by the administration, will be nearly 500,000 cotton mill workers and

TREASURY OF AUSTRIA BARE

Country's Financial Resources Low—Situation Becoming Critical

VIENNA, Aug. 30 (AP). — Two revolutions within six months have absorbed all the spare change in Austria. Moreover, they have brought on conditions which have impaired seriously the revenues of the state and the income of individuals, so that recovery seems to many Austrians to be a vain hope.

When the smoke of February's revolution cleared away, 1,500 Socialists were dead and the Government had a stack of bills totaling $20,000,000. The revolution in July, touched off with the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss, cost almost as much as the first revolt.

To meet these expenditures the Government levied a special "security tax" on the people. Many were unable to pay.

SEEKING FOREIGN LOAN

The country's financial resources are so low that the Government now is seeking a new foreign loan through the League of Nations, and also to induce foreign powers to cut interest rates on loans already contracted.

Foreign trade has dwindled to the vanishing point. Tourist traffic, formerly one of the most productive sources of revenue, has virtually ceased.

Unemployment in Austria is increasing steadily. The streets of Vienna are filled with the workless, many begging.

METEOR FLASHES ACROSS MONTANA

Spectacle Accompanied by Rumbling Noise—Witnesses Say the Earth Shook

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 30 (AP).—A meteor flashed through the sky north of Butte tonight, illuminating the heavens. Some spectators declared the light was accompanied by a rumbling noise and that the earth shook.

The meteor appeared in the northeast and apparently fell in the northwest.

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 30 (AP). —A meteor which flashed across the sky was seen by a number of Missoula residents this evening. It was described as having a fiery head, with a tail which shed a blue-green light.

RUSSIA WILL JOIN LEAGUE

Great Britain, France and Italy Open Way at Geneva for Soviets

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP).—The road to League of Nations membership stretched straight and smooth before Soviet Russia, tonight.

Three powerful European nations —Great Britain, France and Italy— joined diplomatic hands to remove obstacles to the great Communist nation's admission, and this evening an authoritative British source was prepared to describe Russia's entry as almost assured.

COUNCIL SEAT

A permanent seat on the League Council also was promised the Soviet, this source said.

Great Britain, France and Italy now hold the only permanent council seats and their united support of the Russian cause was regarded as making its success certain.

That Russia demands a permanent place on the council as the price of her entry was confirmed in diplomatic circles.

The disclosure that Great Britain and Italy had joined France in supporting the claims of her friend, Russia, for league membership, was made in an official statement from the Foreign Office.

PLAN ENDORSED

"The British, French and Italian Governments," it said, "are making inquiries through their representatives in various capitals with regard to the attitude of the Governments to which they are accredited toward the entry of the Soviet Union into the League of Nations."

Had not those inquiries met with universal affirmatives, high British sources agreed, the statement would not have been issued.

An invitation is expected to be issued soon after the league assembly meets September 10 at Geneva. Acceptance, it is understood, is assured.

Premier Bennett To Sail Saturday

OTTAWA, Aug. 30 (CP).—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett will leave Ottawa tomorrow night for Quebec, where he will embark, Saturday, on the Empress of Britain, en route to the League of Nations meeting at Geneva. He will return later to England for a short stay before his return to Canada a month hence.

Mayor Moves to Bring Back Work In City's Mills

Negotiations Are Conducted With View to Absorbing Nearly 800 Men Into Local Lumber Plants —Two Will Employ Approximately 450 Men in Three Months' Time

MAYOR David Leeming is carrying on negotiations which he is hopeful will lead to the reopening of all sawmills in Victoria, and the consequent absorption of nearly 800 unemployed men, it was learned yesterday.

In discussing the negotiations the Mayor said that figures compiled in July, just after the Moore & Whittington lumber mill fire, showed that there were only 260 men employed in sawmills in Victoria, compared with 1,059 in 1930.

With the resumption of operations by the Moore & Whittington firm in about three months' time, some seventy-five men will be put back on a single shift, and when the plant is speeded up to a double shift the total will be raised to 150.

The Cameron Lumber Company, which expects to start operations in three months, will employ approximately 200 men, so that the unemployed sawmill men would be reduced in numbers to approximately 450.

BIG PAYROLL

When the C.P.S. Lumber Company was operating it employed 350 men in the mills alone, and the payroll of the mills and the camps showed a total of between 500 and 600 men. If this mill were to resume operations, the city's relief list would be practically wiped out.

Need for the absorption of the unemployed into Victoria's basic industry was emphasized yesterday, when relief department figures revealed that the cost of relief was between $3,000 and $4,000 more this year than last.

The Mayor takes the view that, if the mills can be re-opened and absorb the bulk of those on relief, those remaining will be able to find jobs elsewhere due to the stimulation in business brought about by the re-employment of mill men.

MAN ATTEMPTS TO KILL THREE

Attacks Family With Hammer—Faced Disgrace Over Accounts

SEATTLE, Aug. 30 (AP).—James E. Davies, fifty-four, discharged bank official, was in a padded cell here tonight after attempting to kill his wife, daughter and mother-in-law with a hammer because he thought his family would find death preferable to disgrace they faced over discovery of a $10,000 shortage in his accounts.

Arrested and placed in a padded cell after the attacks, Davies attempted to garrote himself with a cord from his pyjamas, the only garment he was wearing. The three women were taken to hospital.

NOT CRITICALLY HURT

Davies' wife, Mrs. Kathleen V. Davies, fifty-two, suffered fractures of the skull and jaw and severe lacerations; his daughter, Margaret Mary Davies, twenty-two, University of Washington senior, had a fractured skull and arm as well as cuts and bruises, and Mrs. Davies' mother, Mrs. Agnes Reedy, seventy-four, suffered head lacerations. Physicians express the belief that all would recover.

At the hospital, Miss Davies was

More Than $1,300,000 Worth of Property Has Changed Hands in Seven-Month Period—Sales for July $74,260 Greater Than June

MORE than $1,300,000 worth of real estate has changed hands during the first seven months of the year, it was announced yesterday by George Okell, city assessor. This is a substantial gain over the figures for the same period of 1933.

Up to the end of July of this year a total of $1,326,751 worth of property changed hands, as compared with $1,285,123 for the same period last year. This is an increase of $41,628.

JULY FIGURES

During the month of July exchanges of property amounted to $172,400, as compared with $98,140 during the previous month, an increase of $74,260.

Of the $1,326,751 worth of property to change hands, $509,530, or nearly half of the total, is represented in actual sales. The remaining property was exchanged through transfers and also the probate of wills.

AN ACTIVE MONTH

July was the most active month of the year in real estate sales, the total amounting to $91,530. The next busiest month was February, which recorded sales amounting to $86,480.

The following schedule gives a comparison of the sales and total exchanges, month by month:

PUSHES DRIVE AGAINST JEWS

New Order Outlaws All Relationships for Members of Nazi Party

BERLIN, Aug. 30 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—An order outlawing any relationship between members of the Nazi party and Jews has been prepared by Rudolf Hess, deputy party leader, it was learned today.

The commandments of the ostracism were given as follows:

No Jew may received a letter of introduction or a recommendation from a party member or Government officials or party functionaries.

PARTY COLLECTIONS

Contributions to party collections must not be received from Jews.

Jewish stores must not display Nazi shields or symbols.

Members of the party must not be seen in public places with Jews.

They must avoid all kinds of private relations with Jews.

It was learned 3,000,000 copies of the order have been printed and await distribution to party members.

In the past Hess has refrained from assaults upon the Jews.

LANDS PLANE AT OTTAWA

John Grierson Completes Survey Flight Over Northern Atlantic Route

OTTAWA, Aug. 30 (CP).—Greatly fatigued but gratified at reaching his goal, John Grierson, the intrepid airman who set out from Rochester, England, July 20, to conduct a survey flight to Canada via the northern route, reached Ottawa, today. The last stage from James Bay to Ottawa was accomplished in five and three-quarter hours.

The bright-red Gypsy Moth of the tall and slender flyer was sighted west of the Ottawa air station at 1:20 p.m. Following for a brief space the course of the Ottawa River, Grierson encircled the flying field and brought his seaplane to a perfect landing on the surface of the river directly opposite the Royal Canadian Air Force camp.

EXTEND GREETINGS

First to greet him were Wing Commander A. E. Godfrey, D.F.C., officer commanding the air station, and Wing Commander G. O. Johnson, of the R.C.A.F. headquarters staff.

Since leaving Kovuntvituk, on the eastern shore of Hudson Bay, the flyer had been practically out of touch with Canadian wireless stations. Throughout the whole of the final stage the flyer had to use his compass. Prior to that, however, fog over Hudson Bay forced him to hug the coastline closely.

Grierson said that his flight had been undertaken entirely on his own. Its purpose, he said, was to make a survey of a possible airmail route from the United Kingdom to Canada.

HAD NO SLEEPING BAG

The flyer let it be understood discomforts were not absent from his trip. Devoid of a sleeping bag, he had been obliged to "huddle up" in the cabin of his plane at nights.

"It was very cold," he said. "I spent three days on the eastern coast of Greenland and one on the west coast."

MAY ALTER NEW DEAL STRATEGY

Victory of Upton Sinclair in California Makes Changed Plans Necessary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP).—Adjustments of New Deal strategy in the political campaigns were foreshadowed tonight by the reaction to Upton Sinclair's runaway with the California Democratic nomination for governor.

The triumph of the Socialist-turned-Democrat likewise was considered to rank the Golden Bear State beside the industrial East as a "happy hunting ground" of the American Liberty League.

ADDS TO DISPUTE

Decision of the American Bar Association to parallel the league's scrutiny of Roosevelt policies added to the crescendo of dispute.

The resolution adopted at Milwaukee reflected reluctance to take the administration at its word as to constitutional guarantees being respected. Political strategists will not overlook that.

GROWING TENSION

Comment and the lack of it attested to a growing tension. Regarding Sinclair, organization Democrats remained wary. They noted the promptitude with which it was stipulated that President Roosevelt would not discuss politics in his coming meeting with the nominee.

DUTCH PRINCESS IS NOT ENGAGED

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 30 (AP).—Rumors that the engagement of twenty-five-year-old Princess Juliana to Prince Bertil of Sweden will soon be announced, were officially denied tonight.

A telegram from Swedish court authorities, received here, said the reports were absolutely unfounded.

Secret Service Operatives Intercept Note Addressed to Mrs. Roosevelt Threatening Harm to Chief Executive and to His Grandchildren Unless $168,000 Paid

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP).—Benjamin Franklin Varn, thirty-three, was arrested tonight under the Lindbergh law for writing to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt a letter threatening harm to the United States President and kidnapping of his grandchildren unless she paid him $168,000.

Varn's letter went to the White House and was investigated in a routine fashion by the Secret Service. Varn, who said he lived at Charleston, S.C., and described himself as a former machinist in the Naval Aviation Corps, was arrested at a branch of the Y.M.C.A. He is being held for arraignment tomorrow.

The letter, received a week or ten days ago, said bodily harm would be done to "Buzzie" and "Sistie" Dall, children of the President's daughter, the former Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, or the child of his son, Elliott, unless the money was paid.

HARM PRESIDENT

The "gang," the letter said, might even take steps to harm the President.

The letter informed Mrs. Roosevelt that she would be told by telephone when and how to deliver the money.

The letter gave the telephone number of the Y.M.C.A. house where Varn was arrested, it was learned on good authority.

Varn said he was unmarried and a member of a wealthy Charleston family.

KEPT FROM FAMILY

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Aug. 30 (AP). —President and Mrs. Roosevelt expressed surprise tonight at the arrest of a man charged with threatening them. The Secret Service explained to newspaper men that the letter never reached the Summer White House and was handled in routine from Washington.

MENTALLY DISORDERED

CHARLESTON, S.C., Aug. 30 (AP). —Benjamin Franklin Varn, accused in New York of attempting to extort $168,000 from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, has suffered from a mental disorder since 1921, his brother, John D. Varn, of this city, said tonight. Varn was hit in the head by an airplane propeller while stationed at the naval air base at Pensacola, Fla. He now is drawing a pension from the United States navy.

SAYS IL DUCE RULES AUSTRIA

Former Vice-Chancellor Declares Italian Premier Financed Heimwehr

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 30 (AP).—Franz Winkler, former Austrian Vice-Chancellor, today charged that "Austria is completely in the hands of Mussolini."

The Italian Premier, he said in an interview here, has contributed largely to funds used in supporting Prince Ernst von Starhemberg's Heimwehr, Fascist home guard.

A fugitive from Austria, Winkler charged that Mussolini brought termination of negotiations eighteen months ago that, he said, would have led to an "agreement" between Germany and Austria.

PREVENTS RECONCILIATION

"Mussolini has prevented and always will prevent any reconciliation between Austria and Germany," the former Vice-Chancellor added.

Winkler said Il Duce's alleged interfering with German-Austrian negotiations came when he telephoned recommendations to Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, assassinated in the Nazi uprising in July, not to go

FROST CAUSES LOSS AT FORT VERMILION

FORT VERMILION, Aug. 30 (CP).—Crops were dealt a severe blow, Wednesday night, when the thermometer dipped to 21 degrees, an August low record for many years.

This made the fourth freezing temperature of the month for this district, 280 miles north of Peace River by water, and many farmers have ploughed grain under. There will probably be a serious potato shortage, as there was also a killing frost on July 5.

FINDS POST NOT BOUGHT

Charge of Office Buying in Ontario Not Substantiated Before Inquiry

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP). — Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher, conducting the inquiry into the charges against former Ontario Cabinet ministers by Daniel McCaughrin, former Orillia police magistrate, today declared there was no indication in evidence that Howard Gover had purchased the office of magistrate.

Mr. McCaughrin charged that Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests in the former Conservative Government, and Hon. W. H. Price, former Attorney-General, had attempted to buy him out of office as Orillia magistrate, and that Mr. Gover had taken part in this attempt.

ON BRINK OF DISMISSAL

"Gover was not a purchaser of that office by any stretch of the imagination," Mr. Justice Fisher said. "McCaughrin was on the brink of dismissal; nothing could save him. It was an unfortunate situation, that's all."

"They wanted to let the man down gently as he was an old man," Mr. Justice Fisher added. The $2,000 given to Mr. McCaughrin through arrangements made by the two former Cabinet Ministers and Mr. Gover was to assist him, as he was "going out and Gover was going in."

Tariff Pact Draws Note From Japan

TOKIO, Aug. 31 (AP). — The Japanese Government made representations, today, to the State Department at Washington, and also the Government of the Philippines, against a proposed tariff agreement between the United States and the islands.

The agreement, it was asserted, under which tariff increases on foreign goods entering the Philippines are permitted, will discriminate against Japan's trade with the Philippines.

The Chugai Shogo, Japan's leading financial newspaper, headlined the story "Trans-Pacific Trade War Begun."

FILM FAMILIES IN AUTO SMASH

Two Women and Two Children Killed in California—Another Injured

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Aug. 30 (AP).—Two women and two children, members of two high standing Hollywood motion picture families, were killed eighteen miles north of here, today, when their automobile collided with a truck.

The dead are:

Mrs. Belle Berger Stebbins, thirty-five, wife of Arthur Stebbins, artists' agent, and niece of Joseph Schenck, producer; Mrs. Katherine Seaman Marin, thirty-eight, wife of Ted Marin, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer producer; Lile Belle Stebbins, eleven, and B. D. Stebbins, fourteen.

The children were the son and daughter of Mrs. Stebbins.

IS CRITICALLY INJURED

The fifth occupant of the automobile, tentatively identified as a young daughter of Mrs. Marin, was taken to the San Joaquin Hospital here, where doctors said her chances of living were slight.

The party was returning from a vacation at Yosemite National Park when the light sedan, driven by Mrs. Marin, was struck head-on by a truck, driven by Thomas Lee Williams, Los Angeles.

Hollywood Producer Sees Possibilities For Industry Here

Rupert Julian, Director of Some of Most Noted Pictures of Past Twenty Years, Spends Short Holiday in Victoria

ONE of Hollywood's most successful producers, Rupert Julian, gave Victoria the honor of a few days' visit this week. Mr. Julian intended making a prolonged stay here, but an unexpected message recalled him hurriedly to the South, and he left yesterday afternoon, expressing his intention of returning again in the not distant future for a more leisurely holiday.

Producer of a long succession of outstanding Hollywood successes during the past twenty years, Mr. Julian, a little more than three years ago, decided to withdraw from that aspect of the business to take up advisory work and writing, which interests him more at the present time. For several months he had been looking forward to experiencing a holiday on Vancouver Island, and he and his wife eventually drove up from California, arriving last Sunday. They were almost immediately discovered by friends, and spent their time here in sight-seeing and visiting. It was a great disappointment to them, he says, to have to cut their holiday short.

ISLAND ATTRACTIONS

Mr. Julian was very much struck by the beauty and quaintness of Victoria and the surrounding country, and this led him to comment on the possibilities of producing pictures here. While he recognizes the tremendous advantage that Hollywood possesses through her many years' start in the business, and the handicap which this is likely to prove to the production of pictures here, he does not by any means pooh-pooh Victoria's aspirations to become the Canadian Hollywood.

"It is a pretty difficult thing to make a picture, even with the best of photographic and other technical equipment at hand. But on the other hand, if anyone with ability, experience and recognized standing in the profession—someone with knowledge of the business—comes here to make pictures, he should, I think, receive every encouragement from British and Canadian subjects," he maintained. In the United States the making of pictures now ranks as third or fourth in importance among the industries of the country. Why should not Canada, he asks, share in the profits of a similar industry, even if it entails the expenditure of money to get the industry launched?

A SPECIAL ART

Pictures are a special art, and the making of them requires highly trained and experienced men if the pictures are to be successful, says this experienced director, whose name is known to English-speaking movie fans the world over as the producer of "Phantom of the Opera," "Cat and the Canary," "East Is West," "Three Faces," "Country Doctor," and many other pictures of the first rank. In Hollywood, which has been the Mecca of the picture industry for years, the successful producers have all been men who have been associated with and studied the business since they were boys. Now, highly specialized, they can almost instantly recognize in a scenario the qualities that make for successful production.

"There is no question that the wonderful scenery and quaintness of this Island lends itself admirably to production," he said, adding that as a New Zealander and a Britisher he would very much like to be associated with such an organization if Canada ever were fortunate enough to possess a studio. Mr. Julian was most emphatic about the importance of first-class actors and actresses "of legitimate experience." The production end of the business was important; but the actors were also important. Artists of the calibre of Marie Dressler, for instance, had helped to give the talking pictures the position they occupied today.

Mr. Julian enjoys the distinction of being the only living producer of New Zealand nationality, and as such ranks somewhat as a freak in Hollywood in an industry which has representatives of nearly every other nationality.

SAANICH LOSING SENIOR OFFICER

Sergeant of Police Robert S. Brown Retiring at His Own Request

Nearly two decades of service to Saanich Municipality will come to a close on September 30 for Sergeant Robert S. Brown, senior member of the municipal police force.

His retirement, which comes at his own request, was announced following a special meeting of the Saanich police commission, yesterday. Sergeant Brown will be superannuated.

Joining the Saanich force in 1918, Sergeant Brown was its senior member, having completed sixteen years as a police officer. He was a highly-respected constable and was well liked by all those with whom he came in contact.

His resignation was accepted with regret, and Reeve William Crouch, chairman of the commission, made the following statement on behalf of the municipal police board:

TRIBUTE PAID

"This commission, in accepting the resignation of Sergeant Brown, who for sixteen years has been a member of the Saanich police force, wishes to place upon record appreciation of his services to the municipality.

"His tact, courtesy, efficiency and fine record have been exceptionally good.

"Sergeant Brown leaves with the best wishes of the commission and his brother officers and the sincere hope that Mrs. Brown and himself will be spared for many years to enjoy the rest to which they are so well entitled."

The commission will take no steps to fill the vacancy until Commissioner A. E. Scaife returns from Europe late in September, it was announced.

ONTARIO WOMAN SAVES TWO MEN

Braves Storm-Tossed Waters to Rescue Fishermen From Drowning in Lake

BANCROFT, Ont., Aug. 30 (CP).—Miss C. Folcard, of Picton, Ont., employee of the Ontario Mother's Allowance Commission, braved the storm-tossed waters of Pudash Lake, today, in an old punt and one shattered oar to rescue Dr. F. Hopkins and George Bradshaw, Illinois tourists spending a holiday in this district.

Dr. Hopkins and Bradshaw were fishing from a canoe when they had a strike and when one of the fishermen shifted position to work the reel the small craft overturned.

Dr. Hopkins was nearing exhaustion in holding up the unconscious Bradshaw when Miss Folcard reached them in the ancient punt. The woman fashioned a rope by tearing her hoisery off and using her neck scarf. Bradshaw was fastened to the rear of the punt and the woman managed to haul the doctor aboard.

WAS MERE TOOL

"Dollfuss saw no way out of a Von Starhemberg - Mussolini dictatorship, under which he was a mere tool," Winkler charged. "That is why Dollfuss came to me in desperation several times before his death and entrusted to me large sums of money to help him free the country.

"Von Starhemberg has received no less than $1,000,000 since 1929 to do Italy's dirty work in Austria," Winkler charged.

BRANDED AS LIES

ROME, Aug. 30 (AP).—Charges by Franz Winkler, former Austrian Vice-Chancellor, that his native country is in the hands of Italy, drew short and pointed answer here today.

"A lie from beginning to end," an authoritative source termed Winkler's charges.

Declaring them "nothing more or less than an expression of Winkler's bitterness," this source denied flatly that Premier Mussolini subsidized Prince Ernst von Starhemberg's Austrian Heimwehr.

GENERAL STRIKE ORDERED BY UNION

their dependents and more than 1,000 mills.

Touched, too, will be business men in the textile centres, and probably those who supply the raw materials to the manufacturers.

Of the nearly 500,000 workers, some are employed while others are not; some are union members while others are not; yet all are likely to feel the effect of the strike.

MAY EXTEND

Possibility of extension of the walkout to some 350,000 workers in the silk, rayon, woollen and synthetic yarn industries remained in doubt. The strike order called upon them to "stand by for further orders."

The walkout call was tapped out by telegraph in a dramatic setting.

Crowded around the wire key were members of the executive council and strike committee of the United Textile Workers, officials from other labor organizations who trouped over from American Federation of Labor headquarters, and scores of reporters and photographers.

Francis J. Gorman, strike chairman, handed the message to a telegrapher. It read:

"To all local unions, greetings. Strike of all Cotton Textile Workers will begin at 11:30 o'clock, your time, Saturday night. Put all previous instructions into effect. Wool, silk, rayon and synthetic yarn membership stand by for further orders. Victory through solidarity."

METEOR FALLS INTO SEA

FLORIDA VISITOR SAYS TIMES GOOD

H. T. Greene Declares Tourist Traffic Best in Eight Years—Tornadoes Not Expected

Considerably improved conditions, which have been increasingly apparent in Florida for the past year, were seen as an indication of better times throughout the United States in general by H. T. Greene, Plant City, who is visiting Victoria, and is staying with Mrs. Greene at the Empress Hotel.

Tourist traffic, which is the main source of revenue in the state, has greatly improved of late, Mr. Greene said, adding that not since 1926 have so many visitors flocked to Florida for Winter and Summer vacations. Indications are that this Winter the tourist traffic will be even greater, he continued.

Little fear of tornadoes sweeping through Florida this Fall and wreaking havoc on the countryside is held by residents, Mr. Greene said. However, it is expected that September rains will, as is usual, cause floods, he concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Greene plan to leave the city shortly for Vancouver, from where they will travel to Banff. From there they will go to Winnipeg, before returning home.

Cast Iron Pavement Will Be Given Test

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 30 (CP).—A new experiment in street surfacing—a thirty-foot stretch of cast iron pavement on a campus avenue—will be undertaken by the University of Minnesota, next month. It is skid-proof and will outlast granite.

BURIED AT ROYAL OAK

Rev. E. F. Church officiated at the funeral service for Miss Lilian Tate, which took place yesterday afternoon, during which the hymns "Abide With Me" and "Lead, Kindly Light," were sung. The casket and hearse were covered with beautiful floral offerings.

The following acted as pallbearers: J. Mavor, R. F. Taylor, J. W. Stewart, R. F. Green, C. R. Charlewood and E. A. Taylor. Interment was made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

On Monday afternoon, the regatta at Cordova Bay will attract a large number, which the Coach Lines is prepared to handle; while week-end excursions at reduced rates are offered to Vancouver by way of Sidney and Steveston.

MRS. FRANK FOYSTON PASSES IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Aug. 30 (AP).—A fire department inhalator squad made an unsuccessful effort tonight to save the life of Mrs. Helen Tuffley Foyston, wife of Frank Foyston, manager of the Seattle professional hockey club, following an operation.

Physicians said they hoped the oxygen treatment would aid her weakened vitality. The firemen worked for an hour in vain.

TWO CLASHES IN SPOKANE STRIKE

Woman Overcome by Tear Gas When Guards Throw Bombs at Sympathizers

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 30 (AP).—A woman was taken to hospital, overcome by tear gas, and two men were arrested, tonight, in two disturbances in connection with the street car strike here.

With about 1,000 persons gathered at the car barns, strike sympathizers threw rocks until guards and company employees retaliated with tear gas bombs. A woman was overcome.

At the city centre, where but one cross-city line of the Spokane United Railways operated, Frank Jones and James Johnston, laborers, were arrested on disorderly conduct charges. Jones was alleged to have thrown eggs at a bus, and Johnston was purported to have opened the door of a bus and reviled the operator with epithets. Neither was said to be a striker.

WORK PLAN IS UNDER REVIEW

Only Two Months Remain in Which Employment on Roads Possible

With but two months left in which roadwork of any nature will be possible this year, provincial officials were looking, yesterday, for decisions as to what policy will be followed in the relief-work programme to be carried out by the Government this year. Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, is pressing for immediate Cabinet action to get the programme under way.

From present indications it appears likely that the Province will apportion $1,000,000 for the relief-work plan among provincial ridings, according to their needs.

Complaints from the Nanaimo-Alberni riding as to the state of roads northward from Nanaimo were currently under review by Mr. MacPherson.

ISLAND TO SHARE

Final decision has yet to be made by the Cabinet as to where the money will be spent. Vancouver Island, in any event, will get its fair share, the Minister of Works has stated.

Clouding the picture to some extent is the decision of the Government to allow farmers to work out one year's taxes to save their properties from forced sales this year. The money for this purpose, it was said, cannot come from ordinary road votes in each riding, and may have to come from the new borrowings arranged at Ottawa. The extent and cost of farm-tax relief remains to be analysed.

SECOND BIGGEST TUNA CUSTOMER

Canada Bought 7,291 Cases of Wine-Red Fish From Japan in Seven Months

By PERCY WHITEING
Canadian Press Correspondent.

TOKIO, Aug. 30 (CP).—Canada is Japan's second best customer for canned tuna fish, it is shown by figures released by the Japan Marine Products Association; but the Dominion's purchases are far smaller than those of the biggest buyer, the United States.

In the first seven months of 1934, 7,291 cases were shipped to Canada, including 2,120 cases in July. Of the 163,399 cases shipped during the seven months, the United States received 146,916 cases, including 53,510 cases in July.

The third best buyer during the seven-months period was Belgium, with 3,475 cases, while Great Britain received 910 cases.

SEVERE BLOW

Japan's tuna fish exports suffered a severe blow this year in the decline of sales to the United States. Last year, California tuna packers complained bitterly of the huge quantities coming from Japan. Finally, a compromise was offered to the Japanese to take 300,000 cases of canned and frozen fish in bulk, equivalent to 200,000 cases. This the Japanese rejected, with the result that American duties were clamped down and Japanese sales fell off.

Tuna, or maguro as it is called in Japanese, is one of the main sources of Japan's famed raw fish, its wine-red flesh, chilled and sliced, furnishing one of the favorite dishes of the Japanese table.

Government Has Unexpected Aid on Knotty Case

UNEXPECTED relief arrived at the Legislative Buildings, yesterday, to aid the Provincial Government with one of its long-standing problems. Entirely unheralded, a smartly-dressed visitor entered the buildings and strolled nonchalantly down the main corridors. Wearing a magnificent set of white furs, trimmed in black, the stranger scrutinized lettering over the doors of governmental offices, and finally made her way to the root of the problem, in the basement. For weeks past, it seems, mice have been growing increasingly daring in raids on official papers stored in vaults and elsewhere. Two mice were found recently so gorged that they could not escape from wastebaskets in a ministerial suite. Now relief is at hand, in the shape of a black and white cat!

GIVEN TERM FOR THEFT FROM CAR

Justices of Peace, Sitting in City Police Court, Inflict Jail Sentence

James Forman and L. C. Lytton, sitting in the city police court, yesterday, as justices of the peace, disposed of the charge laid against John Thompson of having, last Saturday evening, taken from a car parked on Yates Street a quantity of paint, turpentine, etc., and a leather bag, all valued at less than $25. He will serve three months in jail. The accused declared he was so drunk he did not know what he was doing, and had no recollection of his acts. Arthur Abbott and George Edgar testified to having seen the accused opening up several cars, and testified that he was drunk.

Detective F. Woodburn, who arrested the accused with the goods, said, while the accused had been drinking, he was not so drunk that he did not know what he was doing.

The court found that Thompson was guilty. His record showed that in 1926, in Nelson, he had served time for perjury, and again in 1933 served a term for theft. The charge of being drunk was withdrawn, following the conviction on the theft count.

Defective Lights Bring Motorists To Saanich Court

Fines of $5 each were imposed on four motorists in Saanich Police Court, yesterday. Two were fined for failing to have the required number of headlights, while the others were prosecuted for not having tail lights on their motor cars.

Saanich Police Chief Allan Rankin has since issued a warning that drastic action will be taken against all motorists who fail to keep the lighting of their motor cars in working order.

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP).—A bid of $52,000 was made for a seat on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The last sale was consummated some few months ago at $44,000. Nearest offering price is understood to be around $60,000.

AID IS LENT TO SUNSHINE INN

Yesterday's Meeting Devoted by Rotary Club to Deserving Institution

The weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club held yesterday was converted into a means for assisting the needs of the Sunshine Inn, of which Capt. R. J. Gadsden has been the directing head for almost three years. The luncheon was held in the Victoria City Temple building, where the ladies of the Temple served luncheon in the banquet room.

Following an address by Capt. Gadsden, J. Morse Hatt, president of the Rotary Club, turned the meeting over to Victor Clarke for a few minutes. The latter transformed the gathering into a mock court, and, by way of penalties for various offences, assessed fines against members of the club, which included articles needed at the Inn and which were to be delivered to Capt. Gadsden.

In his address, Capt. Gadsden briefly traced the development of the idea which was behind the Sunshine Inn. He said that he did not feel he deserved praise for what he did. He had carried out the work as a trust which he felt was thrust upon him as a duty in serving the city.

SERVE GOOD MEALS

The food that was served was all of good quality. He would not accept any provisions that were not good. While the most expensive material was not purchased, all that was taken was nutritious. In this connection he said he had served 44,190 meals to children, from infants to nine years of age. It had been interesting to see these children improve under the food served.

Two who had been afforded the opportunity to get meals at the Inn attended the meeting and spoke of the excellent service given by Capt. Gadsden and the women who had so unselfishly, free of cost, given time in serving them. One was seventy-four years of age and the other sixty-three. They had no other means of getting food. A letter of thanks from a young man of thirty-five, who had obtained work up the Island, was read also.

Capt. Gadsden said a dollar was enclosed from the young man to help on the work.

MAYOR'S PRAISE

Mayor David Leeming, in introducing the speaker, expressed his thanks as a director of the Foundation that had the work of the Inn in hand, for the assistance the Rotary Club had been to the institution. There had been 250,000 meals served, free of cost, since the Inn opened on January 1, 1932.

The Mayor pointed out that the need still existed for such a work as Capt. Gadsden and the self-sacrificing helpers were doing. There were on the list of registered applicants for assistance as unemployed, 35 per cent more today than in 1932.

Rev. W. J. Thompson, pastor in charge of the City Temple, extended a welcome on behalf of the church to the visiting Rotarians.

RECEIPTS FROM TAX ARREARS UP

Increase of $20,000 Over Last Year's Collections Reported by City Treasury Officials

Receipts from tax arrears accounts are more than $20,000 ahead of last year's figures, it was announced by treasury department officials at the City Hall, yesterday.

To date a total of $112,844 has been collected from this source, as against $92,634, for the same period last year.

In announcing the increased collections, Edwin C. Smith, city treasurer, pointed out the advantage to be gained by paying arrears before the tax sale of delinquent property, which begins on the first Monday in November.

A discount of 50 per cent is allowed on the penalty, and a further discount of 50 per cent is allowed on the interest payable on tax arrears.

"Are you familiar with mules?' asked the farmer of the colored employee.

"No, sir: Ah knows too much about them to get familiar wit' 'em."

Registration of Unemployed in Province Is Nearing Completion

Reregistration of relief applications in the Province was nearing the halfway mark, yesterday, with 21,000 names filed with central headquarters of the drive, here. Of these, slightly in excess of 10,000 applications had been filed in unorganized territories under Provincial control. Municipal returns are at the 11,000 mark, for an incomplete progress count, which is expected to double before completion.

Reregistration in provincial areas was believed to be nearing a conclusion, though cessation of seasonal work may bring many further requests as Autumn advances.

From past experience, provincial relief officials believe that the number of unemployed men in municipalities will be approximately two-thirds of the total. Partial returns have been received from municipal areas, with considerable sections of the enrollment yet to be received.

LAST RESPECTS PAID

Yesterday afternoon funeral services for Thomas Atkins, pioneer of the Esquimalt district, were held, at 2 o'clock, Rev. N. E. Smith officiating, after which the remains were laid at rest in Colwood Burial Park. There were many beautiful floral offerings. Mrs. S. M. Morton sang the solo, "The Old Rugged Cross," and the hymn was "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Pallbearers were J. H. Goodall, D. W. Spencer, R. Winter, W. Newham, W. Pagnes and J. H. Salmon.

RELIEF FOR DROUGHT SUFFERERS

It is estimated that 40,000 families are affected in the drought areas of Southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan. There is a reported agreement between the Federal Government and the Provincial Governments concerned, with the co-operation of the railways, to move these families to a more beneficent clime. Their sufferings from drought have now extended over four years. The trouble regarding any proposal for their removal is that many of the families prefer to remain where they are, claiming that their problem can be met by the provision of irrigation works on a very extensive scale. The Governments concerned can hardly remove them willy nilly, and so the whole question appears to deadlocked.

The proposal is that the residents of the drought areas should be moved to more northern lands. The railways have offered to transport their cattle at 50 per cent of the normal freight rate, and settlers and their effects at 66 2-3 per cent of the normal tariff. For such families as remain in the drought area the railways propose that feed for the cattle should be carried in at 66 2-3 per cent of the normal tariff. The Federal Government is to pay half the transportation costs and the Provincial Governments concerned the other half.

There will be appreciation from one end of the country to the other that special measures are needed in a case where settlers have been the victims of circumstances over which they have no control. The thing is to devise what is best to be done. The settlers in question are without crops, seed or feed for their livestock, and they face the Winter without fuel or wood. A million head of stock are in the drought areas. Probably many families will be removed. As well, however, something in the nature of irrigation will have to be provided if any considerable number of families elect to stay in their present holdings.

STRIKE THREAT IN U.S.A.

The threatened strike of 800,000 cotton textile workers in the United States will very conceivably prove the culminating point of labor disturbances that have interfered very seriously with the operation of the New Deal. Apparently all efforts to avert the strike have proved unavailing. The claim of the textile workers is for better working conditions. It is maintained that efforts have been in progress to speed up production without increasing the number of employees. The workers, too, maintain that hours must be shortened without diminution in pay. In the face of these claims a number of the woolen mills in New England are threatening to close because business is poor.

The claims of the textile workers have the complete backing of the American Federation of Labor. The latter body has seen the American Government reducing the maximum hours for workers in the cotton garment industry and the provision of a 10 per cent increase in pay rates for piece work. This affects 200,000 operatives. President Green of the American Federation of Labor claims that what has been done for the cotton garment workers should be repeated in other codes. The Government, so far, does not seem to have intervened, at least in any effective way, to prevent the threatened strike. If it eventuates there will be presumably an additional governmental burden to be shouldered in the matter of provision of relief for the strikers.

A "BENEVOLENT" DESPOTISM

Those members of society who exercise an influence upon the conduct of public affairs by the right of free speech, through the medium of a free press, and particularly by the free and untrammelled use of the ballot, are commonly said to enjoy political equality or, at any rate, equality of political opportunity. However unequal may be the distribution of material wealth among the citizens of such a nation, there is at least a widespread distribution of political power on an equalitarian basis. It is probable that only a very insignificant few in any community would deliberately surrender their political rghts in return for the gift of economic equality. Nearly everybody desires to see a more equitable distribution of goods, but what nation would surrender the right to elect its own rulers and dismiss them at will, the right of organization for political action, the right to criticize the government of the day, the ancient right of petition, and all merely for the purpose of getting rid of economic inequality?

Nevertheless such is the bargain which revolutionary radicals offer in all seriousness to their fellow citizens. The planned economy of the revolutionaries in its very nature, as conceived by its advocates, is a slave economy. The revolutionaries themselves, however unwilling they may be to dwell upon this fact or to encourage others to discuss it, make no attempt to deny that under the proposed planned economy the individual will be required by the bureaucrats of the new era to do his day's work in this factory rather than that, to serve the State in whatever field of effort is chosen for him, to sacrifice his own prejudices and predilections and bring them into line with the opinions of those who have contrived to obtain political control of the economic activities of himself and his fellows.

The revolutionaries say, of course, that all of this regimentation will be tenderly and benevolently managed by the kind-hearted and humane bureaucrats, that it will be done with the idea of putting square pegs into square holes, and round pegs into round holes, and thus making everybody contented and useful; but they make no effort to deny that whether the bureaucrats in office at the moment are kind-hearted or the reverse the process of regimentation must inevitably go on, that there is no escape from it under the planned economy of Socialism. They admit, though with reluctance, that they desire to inaugurate and carry out a planned, and therefore a centrally-directed economy, that is to say an economy in which the citizens are deprived of their political rights—a slave economy. It is clear that if such an alternative were placed before him, that of political equality accompanied by economic inequality, as contrasted with economic equality accompanied by political slavery, the ordinary citizen will certainly not choose the latter.

Nevertheless this is the alternative offered. The radical revolutionary knows only too well that under a bureaucratic system the operative cannot be allowed to exercise political rights. He is keenly aware of the fact that the average human being working in a government factory will not be any more contented with the contrast between his position and the position of the manager than the same man would be in a factory owned by and operated for the profit of some capitalist. It would never do in a planned economy if the worker were to find fault with his lot and threaten to strike. Means must therefore be taken to smother discontent and unrest. There must be no agitation, no free speech, no personal freedom. These things cannot be tolerated. There must be regimentation, rules, regulations, and penalties, and the penalty must effectively fit the crime. This is the planned economy worked out to its logical conclusion.

"HUZZIF"

Not many people pronounce the word "housewife" correctly. A discussion on the pronunciation was raised recently in one of the English newspapers by an Australian, who joined the Bushmen in the Boer War and in leaving was presented by his mother with a "huzzif." When he displayed this gift and pronounced its name as his mother had the pronunciation was greeted with jeers. In thirty years he found no one to uphold his mother's contention regarding the pronunciation. Now he has had a veritable snowball of answers by mail to his query, and as a result of these he will never doubt his mother again. "Huzzif has it," he says. One dictionary gives the pronunciation as "hauswaif." It is undoubted that in olden times, if not so much in modern, the pronunciation more nearly approximated to that of the Australian mother in presenting a soldier's "huzzif" to her son when he set out for the wars. Herrick in his "To the Little Spinners" says:

"Ye pretty Huswives, wo'd ye know
The work that I wo'd put ye to."

The stork is not usually noted as a fighting bird, but the genus can fight and to some purpose when passion is aroused. A tale comes from Orhangazi, in the neighborhood of Brusa, of six eagles attacking a stork's nest, killing the old birds and carrying off the young. In an effort to repeat the performance eagles descended on another nest, but the young had been removed, and on the approach of the birds of prey the older birds took to flight. To put a stop to the depredations, the storks of the neighborhood to the number of 300 assembled, left their young under strong guard and then proceeded in search of the eagles. A long battle ensued, in which the storks emerged victorious, leaving twelve killed on the scene and sustaining fifty casualties in wounded. There were sixty eagles engaged in the fight, and of these twenty were reported killed.

JACQUES CARTIER

"In Hoc Signo Vinces."

He might have wept in disillusionment.
Those barren cliffs. The gold that lured him on,
The jewels that his dreams had dwelt upon!
Where, where were they? His strength was nigh forespent.
"Reef well the sails! Away, dark discontent!
For Christ and King! The shores of France are gone—
Our eyes these strange and rock-bound shores shall con:
Courage, my comrades; aid from Heaven is sent."

The mists dissolve. The centuries are sped.
Wherefore the throng upon that lonely shore?
The bells ring out: A festal day is here.
Two nations twine a garland for his head,
And raise again the Symbol that he bore,
The eternal conqueror of every fear!

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

He serves his party best who serves the country best.—Hayes.

Alexander Pope was somewhat deformed in body, but he was endowed with a very robust mind, and he was not very far wrong when he declared that in the important matter of government it was not the form but the substance that mattered. In experience and in practice nations which have adopted and consistently followed what is called the party system of government have found out that that is the form of government which gives the best results. Of course the party system is not perfect and may be productive of abuses. That is why many persons met on the streets, particularly around the street corners, have been heard saying they were tired of politics. The critics on the street corners say party politics has led this country into a hole; but, as old Bill said, "Show me a better 'ole."

* * *

But in order to achieve the best results, government by party must be limited to two parties if possible. If there be a multiplicity of parties, there is a confusion, uncertainty and frequently political chaos. Chaos was nearly the portion of Great Britain for a brief period when there were three parties appealing for the support of the people. The well-meant attempt of idealists to establish democratic forms of government on the continent of Europe failed because the people of the nations affected formed themselves into groups instead of into two parties, because instead of political cohesion there was political Socialistic and economic confusion. Democracies fell and dictatorships rose. Groups have been dissipated and have been succeeded by single political parties. Popular will has been subordinated to individual will.

* * *

Great Britain has found a better hole, and has dug the hole deeper. So has Canada. That is our idea of the situation, although there are ing to make people believe that politicians of the bitter partizan type who think differently, and are trying to make people believe that Canada is in the mire and sinking deeper in it instead of sitting cosily in the best possible hole. Sometimes we believe the Liberals of Canada are hoping the return of prosperity will be retarded until the time comes for a general election. That is the attitude of mind which causes distrust and disgust with party politicians. There are signs of better times in all the statistical tables compiled and issued for publication. There is more than that: There is a feeling of hope and confidence that the tide of business has ceased to ebb and has begun to flow. The present conditions remind us of a celebrated declaration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that when he attained power the people would find out that better times had returned by putting their hands in their pockets.

* * *

The party pessimists point out almost daily that the depression still exists because the foreign trade of Canada is not what it used to be either in volume or value. The foreign trade of no country is what it used to be, and never may be quite the same again, but if the matter be considered from a comparative basis, the existing conditions in Canada are good and the future of trade in the country is promising. The following convincing article on the subject of trade comparisons appeared lately in a United States publication of the highest repute:

Canada, which has, since the low point of 1933, shown a consistently more rapid recovery than the United States, has materially widened its gains during the last few months, according to a revised study by Calvin Bullock based on comparative statistics relating to eight broad fields of economic endeavor. The study shows that the Dominion has rapidly outstripped the United States in six out of eight of these fields and points out that this has been accomplished without any noticeable departure from the old orthodox tenets of political economy.

The vitality of the recovery in Canadian general industrial production during the first half of 1934 is beyond dispute, according to the survey, the Canadian index having virtually attained par, in relation to a 1926 normal, at 99.9 in May. This figure declined to 95.2 in June, While United States industrial production reached a top of eighty in March and then declined to 77.3 in June. Canadian production showed a gain of 56.8 from February to June as compared with a gain of 30.3 per cent for the United States in the same period.

While electric power production in the United States has expanded to levels nearer pre-depression peaks than any other field, showing a gain of nineteen per cent from March to June, Canada's total production has risen to levels far exceeding 1929 peaks, with a gain of 26.6 per cent during the same months. Railroad freight traffic in the Dominion showed a gain of 46.9 per cent during the first six months of this year, as compared to a gain of only 26.9 per cent for the United States. From March to June steel production in Canada showed a gain of 470 per cent, almost doubling the gain registered by United States production of 247.5 per cent.

The slightly lower percentage gain from the depression lows shown by bank clearings in the Dominion results solely from the fact that Canada escaped the banking debacle in early 1933 which reduced bank clearings in this country to one-quarter of their 1929 monthly average in the month of March. From March to June of 1934, United States clearings showed a gain of forty per cent as against a gain for Canadian clearings of 37.9 per cent. United States employment statistics show a greater percentage gain from the lows of 1933 only because the advance in this country has been measured from a much more depressed base, registering a gain of 37.8 per cent as against 25.8 per cent for the Dominion.

Construction in the United States from February to June of this year made a gain of 121.0 per cent, or 106 per cent if publicly financed work is excluded, as against a much larger gain in Canada of 288.0 per cent, while the percentage gain in export trade in the Dominion tripled that of the United States from April to June, standing at 190.0 per cent, compared with 62.0 per cent.

In accord with this excellent record of economic recovery in the Dominion, Canadian investments have gained a wider recognition and the Canadian stock averages rose during 1934 to a new recovery high of 90.7 in April, topping by an appreciable margin the previous 1933 peak level of 86.5 in July, whereas the United States stock index turned downward from 89.9 in February after failing to penetrate its own 1933 high in the previous July. Standard Statistics' ninety stocks registered a gain from March to June of this year of 59.6 per cent. Dominion Bureau's 121 stocks, in Canadian dollars, showed a percentage gain of 78.1 per cent in the same period, or, if adjusted to American dollars, a gain of 116.0 per cent.

ROSS BAY BEACH

Sir,—There is a large quantity of offensive garbage allowed to accumulate along the sand bathing beach of Ross Bay, facing the cemetery. This is, no doubt, due to the city of Victoria authorities dumping their garbage in the Strait of Juan de Fuca too close to the city. The tide and wind deposit this garbage along the Ross Bay shore, making it very unpleasant for bathers.

I have heard several complaints from residents and people using this sand beach about the garbage. I sincerely trust that the city sanitary authorities will at once take action to overcome this offence. Garbage should be dumped out at sea several miles away from Victoria. Perhaps in the Pacific Ocean might be better.

DOGS OF OAK BAY

Sir,—The sympathy of your many readers will, I am sure, be extended to Percy Fletcher, of Granite Street, Oak Bay, after reading his heart-rending letter relative to the unfortunate condition of the "5,000 inhabitants of the human and 500 of the canine genus," at present residing in Oak Bay.

As I live at 1203 Beach Drive, and as I am guilty of keeping one of those "canine or semi-lupine pests," in justice to my dog friends who cannot reply for themselves, I wish to say that on Beach Drive the streets are not "malodorous and cacophonous," whatever the latter word means.

On behalf of the dogs, I would respectfully suggest that this gentleman emigrate to some "barbarous country" such as Germany or Japan where, he states, dogs are better managed, as I see no other remedy for the doggone matter.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

CORTLAND FITZSIMMONS

Death on the Diamond
by Cortland Fitzsimmons

There have been many detective stories, but none has been more logically planned, more breathlessly written and none has had a tenser, more driving climax than "Death On The Diamond" - - a baseball story through which is woven a plot of sudden death and horror. Don't miss it!

POST READY FOR ALTITUDE FLIGHT

Aviator Hopes to Ascend 50,000 Feet in Veteran Round-the-World Plane

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (AP).—Wiley Post blew up his insulated air suit and tuned up the Winnie Mae today preparatory to a flight he hopes will set a new world's airplane altitude record.

Post, the chunky one-eyed pilot who set a solo speed record around the world last year, said he may take off tomorrow if all his complicated equipment is ready to withstand the rigors of the climate at 50,000 feet, a mark he hopes to attain.

In the Winnie Mae, veteran of two round-the-world flights, Post hopes to better the world's record of 47,560 feet held by Renato Donati, Italian Great War ace.

Buried With Full Military Honors

A large congregation attended the military funeral of Private Edward B. Nicholas, which took place yesterday afternoon, Rev. A. Balfour Bruce conducting the service. The hymns sung were "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Nearer, My God to Thee." A profusion of floral tributes were received.

Commanding Officer Colonel H. C. Greer, D.S.T.O., attended, also H. Pearson, representing the Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion; a delegation from Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, and Mrs. W. Ripley, representing Women's Auxiliary, Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion.

The following comrades acted as pallbearers: R. Sampson, L. R. Gibson, S. A. Morrison, S. Rowton, E. S. T. Charters and H. J. Finch.

The remains were conveyed on a gun carriage in charge of Corporal Rowton to Ross Bay Cemetery, where interment took place. The firing squad in charge of Sergt. Walker, R.C.A., fired three volleys and the Last Post was sounded by Sergeant Bates.

RETURNING TO HOMES AFTER COSTLY BLASTS

CAMPANA, Argentina, Aug. 30 (AP).—With the flames that have been raging for two days among oil storage tanks of the National Oil Company confined to two tanks, danger to the city itself was considered past, tonight, unless the wind shifted.

Residents who evacuated the town during the ear-shattering explosion of twelve large tanks and dozens of smaller ones, returned to their homes, patching broken windows and walls with blankets and boards, and beginning repair of other damage.

POLICE WATCH RACKET CASES

Chief Reports That Questionable Charity Schemes Are Investigated

Every charity racket that has been conducted in this city has been thoroughly investigated, and reported upon, Mayor David Leeming, chairman of the police commission, was informed yesterday by Chief of Police Thomas Heatley, who had been asked by the council to report upon the situation.

Recently, police had occasion to investigate four different types of charity rackets. In each case the detective department, under the direction of Detective Inspector Jack McLellan, thoroughly examined the credentials of those operating the schemes, and the schemes themselves.

The results of their investigations were submitted to Claude Harrison, city prosecutor, for consideration, and in each case it was found that the "racket" was just within the law.

Owing to this the police have been unable to take any steps to stop the various schemes, other than to warn the public generally, which has been done frequently, and more recently by the Chamber of Commerce, which also has taken the matter in hand, realizing, as the police have, that all that can be done is to warn citizens regarding the genuineness of certain enterprises.

MAN ATTEMPTS TO KILL THREE

the only member of the family able to give a coherent account of what happened. She told detectives her mother had apparently been the first attacked.

TELLS OF ATTACK

"I didn't hear anything," she said. "The first thing I knew was when I was awakened to find my father bending over me. He had some sort of instrument in his hand—I thought it was a wrench, but maybe it was a hammer. I screamed and he struck me on the head. It was a glancing blow and it didn't knock me unconscious, so I grappled with him.

"While we were struggling my mother regained consciousness and came to my assistance, and so did my grandmother. Finally we were able to get father downstairs and to hold him until we could get help."

While the struggle was taking place, Patricia Reedy, the Davies' adopted daughter, who was not attacked, ran to the home of a neighbor for assistance.

SOMETHING SNAPPED

Questioned by Captain of Detectives Ernest Yoris after being placed in the padded cell, Davies said he had not planned the attacks in advance. "Something snapped and it came to me all at once that they'd be better off dead than in the disgrace I had brought on them. They're all religious and I knew they'd go right to heaven."

Davies was discharged last Saturday, officers of the First National Bank said, when a shortage in his accounts was discovered. He was an assistant auditor.

LAID TO HER REST

The funeral of the late Elizabeth Lauchlan, who passed away in this city on Tuesday, took place on Thursday afternoon, Rev. J. Smith Patterson conducted the service, during which the hymns "Dying in Jesus" and "The Sands of Time Are Sinking," were sung. "Beyond," was also sung, as a solo, by Mrs. H. Shingles. Interment was made in Royal Oak Burial Park, with the following as pallbearers: D. McMillan, A. McMillan, M. McCaig, D. Denny, H. Reid and D. McCaig.

Astronomical Study Series Draws to End

The last three meetings of the Summer course of the Victoria Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada have been devoted primarily to a study of the (to us) three principal planets of our solar system, viz., the sun, the moon and the earth. On Monday next, G. Brown-Cave will speak on the other planets. The meeting starts at 8 p.m. sharp, and will be held in the laboratory at the Victoria College. This is the last address but one of the series. The final address will be given by Charles Hartley, M.A., who will take for his subject the probable origin of the solar system.

SURPLUS FUNDS GO TO CHARITY

Ladysmith Council Donates Proceeds From Naval Concert to Hospital

LADYSMITH, Aug. 30.—Despite a five-weeks' interval since the last regular meeting of the City Council, nothing of other than routine interest transpired at the regular session.

The City of Kamloops has a resolution to place before the annual convention of the municipalities of British Columbia, to be held in October, and asked for consideration by the Ladysmith Council. The resolution suggests that police magistrates be chosen by local municipal councils, and that the councils control the salary to be paid these magistrates. Although the Council as a whole thought the resolution was a deserving one, decision on the matter will be reserved for the next meeting.

Two new entrants from this city were admitted to the sanitarium at Tranquille for treatment during the past month.

A letter was read from the captain of H.M.S. Norfolk, expressing thanks for the welcome and entertainment accorded the ship while in this port. A surplus of $30 was realised on the entertainments during the visit of the naval men, and this was forwarded to the Norfolk as a donation to any naval charity, by Mayor Walkem.

HOSPITAL BENEFITED

The captain of the Norfolk, however, explained it was the usual practice of the ship to donate any surpluses of this nature to a charity local to where the visit occurred, and he left the suggestion of a suitable institution to Mayor Walkem and his committee. The money has finally been presented to the Ladysmith General Hospital.

All debentures due this year have been duly met, and the last $2,000 due was paid over the other day. With final sewerage debentures to the amount of $8,000 due in 1936, the City of Ladysmith's financial outlook, officially at least, is inclined to be quite favorable, and the aldermen digressed briefly from their labors to congratulate themselves and each other on the promising state of affairs.

The auditor's report is also regarded as a satisfactory document, and tre City Treasurer admitted that despite a lower tax rate, collections had reached a greater amount this year to date, than during the corresponding period for last year.

EXPORTING LOCAL RABBITS TO CHINA

Provincial Breeding Society Expects to Establish Large Market for Angoras in Orient

China is now looking to Victoria to supply it with Angora rabbits for breeding purposes, according to officials of the British Columbia Provincial Rabbit Breeders' Association, here.

The local association is at present preparing thirty animals for shipment to the interior of China. The rabbits will leave on September 8.

In the early Spring, an equal number were shipped to the Orient and were so well received that it is expected a large market for these Victoria-bred animals will be established in the near future, officials of the association explained. Association members are now endeavoring to produce extra fine stock for exporting to various parts of the world.

Air Raiders Level Paris In Mock War

PARIS, Aug. 30 (AP).—"Enemy" air raiders tonight had "laid waste" France's proud capital and, theoretically, escaped almost unscathed.

Sweeping down suddenly out of leaden, foggy skies, the 120 fast bombers of the "Red" attacking fleet "invading" Paris from across an imaginary frontier paralleling the German border, demonstrated adequately the city's vulnerability to an enemy air attack.

Flames Destroy Grain Elevator

VALLEJA, Cal., Aug. 30 (AP).—While flames roared through tons of stored grain and sacking, the Sperry Milling Company's big steel elevator in South Vallejo toppled into San Francisco Bay, today.

Firemen, who were aided by sailors from the Mare Island navy yard in fighting the blaze, estimated the loss at $250,000.

FUNERAL TOMORROW

Funeral services for Thomas Henry Cleator, aged seventy-four years, of 1511 Edgeware Road, who passed away suddenly, on Monday, will be held from the chapel of Sands Mortuary, Ltd., on Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Adj. L. E. Ede, of the Salvation Army Corps, officiating, and the remains will be laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

BOLIVIA PROTESTS

GENEVA, Aug. 30 (AP).— Bolivia today protested to the League of Nations against what it termed false information issued by the league concerning Bolivian claims to the disputed Chaco area.

A disgruntled shareholder rose from his seat at a company meeting and shook an angry finger at the chairman.

"Sir," he said fiercely, "I regard you as a liar and a scoundrel and the biggest rascal unhung."

The chairman looked at him scornfully. "Sir," he said with dignity, "you forget yourself."

FRENCH GOVERNMENT HONORS QUEBEC MEN

QUEBEC, Aug. 30 (CP).—Premier L. A. Taschereau was singularly honored by the French Republic today when Pierre Flandin, French Minister of Public Works, conferred upon him the honor of Knight of the Grand Cross, Legion of Honor

At the same time, M. Flandin created Ralph A. Benoit, clerk of the Legislative Council, a Chevalier of the Legion, and made Dr. A. Morriset, clerk of the Executive Council, an officer of the Academy.

He's back to work in the Huxton home

"I'm glad we've had our telephone put in again, because it does so much for me," said Mrs. Huxton.

"It runs etrands, getting things from the store when I don't want to go myself.

"It keeps me from being lonely. My friends and relatives are widely scattered, but I can keep in touch with them by telephone.

"And it's a great protection. It's comforting to know that there's a telephone in the home in case of an emergency such as fire or sudden illness."

When Kitchener was a Subaltern

Long before Lord Kitchener carried a Field-Marshal's baton; indeed, away back in the seventies when he was a young Subaltern, we were fighting the cause of Empire Wines.
In those days it was not thought possible to produce wines within the Empire which were comparable in quality with Foreign wines.
The development of "Empire consciousness," of which Lord Kitchener was a staunch supporter, has made people more willing-to-try Empire Wines. And, having tried them, few go back to Foreign wines. For example, EMU 444 and EMU 999—Australia's choicest White and Tawny Ports—are now firmly established throughout the Empire. They are wines of outstanding quality.
Another point in their favour is that they cost much less than Foreign wines of equal quality—due to their receiving a tariff preference when entering Canada.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"I DON'T CARE A BUTTON!"

"Very frequently," writes a reader, "we hear the expression 'I don't care a button.' Can you tell us who originated this expression?"

This phrase, an allusion to something which is considered of no accounts—is worthless as a button—has been in our language for at least four centuries.

An early English use of it was by Taylor in his "Workes," published in 1630. However, the idiom was in general circulation in France long before.

The first recorded use is generally credited to Rabelais, who was born three years after Columbus discovered America. In the second book of his "Works," Chapter xvi, we find the line used in its modern sense:

"He did not care a button for it."

UNION'S BRIEF NOT SHATTERED

Municipalities Take Issue With Ministerial Comment on School Costs

Standing stoutly by its guns, the Union of B.C. Municipalities yesterday issued a statement through Mayor David Leeming and R. F. Blandy, Oak Bay, denying any serious breach had been made in the argument the union presented to the Weir school survey committee last week. Ministerial declaration that "the union's brief was pretty badly shattered" evoked the response, which was couched in the following terms:

"The Minister of Education is quoted as having stated that the brief presented by the Union of B.C. Municipalities to the School Finance Survey 'was pretty badly shattered' during the discussions that ensued. This utterance seems to call for some comment.

"The impression made on the minister's mind may have been as stated, but the union's representatives at the meeting carried away a very different impression.

EVOKED COMMENT

"The union's brief evoked considerable comment, as was to be expected. There was some adverse criticism of certain elements, chiefly regarding teachers' salaries, and the present position of councils and school boards. One teacher representative, while accepting the proposal for a reduction in Governmental cost, objected to further reduction in the cost of education.

"The main arguments and proposals of the union were not seriously assailed. The central theme, reduction of land taxes, met with general approval. The proposal for greater reliance on income tax encountered no strenuous opposition. No evidence was put forward to show that land was not overburdened with taxes.

"No rebuttal was offered to the union's strong contention that taxes in the aggregate should not be increased. No denial was forthcoming for the hard and inescapable fact featured in the brief that our annual deficit in the province and municipalities is about $10,000,000.

"Divergence of opinion on certain parts of the brief was obvious, but contradiction is not refutation. Disagreement with one argument in a series is not demolition of the entire series. As a statement of fact, the dictum that the union's brief was 'badly shattered' is hard to accept, however true it may be of the personal impression of one who was present at the preliminary meetings of the School Finance Survey," the union's statement ended.

Outside of the formal statement, union officials here said the stand of the municipalities for a reduction in public costs had been well received by the public; while the main appeal for lightening of the load on land has been the subject of scores of commendatory letters and wires since the union's case was submitted to the Government.

Refuses to Dismiss Air Corps Head

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—United States Secretary of War George Dern refused today to meet the demand of a House of Representatives military affairs sub-committee that Major-General Benjamin D. Foulis be summarily dismissed as chief of the United States Air Corps.

In a diplomatically-worded letter, the Secretary of War criticized the committee's method of procedure and ended by tossing the whole matter back into its lap.

DRUGGISTS NOW UNDER RULINGS

Board Extends Application of Orders on Minimum Wages and Hours

In a verbal declaration yesterday, which, it is assumed, will be supported by written regulation shortly, the Industrial Relations Board decreed an extension of application of the mercantile orders on minimum wages and hours of work.

Drug stores are to be brought under the mercantile rulings in regard to both Minimum Wage and Hours of Work Acts. Registered apprentices, certified clerks and licentiates of pharmacy may work fifty-two hours a week up to September 30, 1935. Other help in drug stores must be keep to forty-eight hours, or less, weekly.

FOR CANVASSING

Door-to-door salesmen must be paid a minimum wage of $15 weekly, coming also under the mercantile order.

Stores in areas other than Victoria and Vancouver may operate on an eleven-hour basis on Saturdays, but must keep to the forty-eight-hour week in respect to individual employees.

It was also announced, through the Ministry of Labor, that an expert is to examine the shingle industry of the province with a view to establishing a minimum wage in that calling.

No change, it was announced, would be made in the mercantile order respecting a minimum wage for delivery boys of various ages. This order will apply whether deliveries are made by motorcycle or just plain push bikes.

MUNICIPAL DEBT PROBLEM SERIOUS

Forty Districts in Ontario in Default to Extent of $96,640,000 —Largest in Canada

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP). — Thomas Bradshaw, president of the North American Life Assurance Company, today told the Ontario Municipal Association Ontario's municipal debt in default is the largest of any province in Canada.

Forty municipalities in Ontario, Mr. Bradshaw said, are in default to the extent of $96,640,819, while the nearest approach to that figure is found in Quebec, where the defaulting debt is $15,000,000.

"No section of Canada, up to four years ago, had a finer reputation for municipal credit than the Province of Ontario," he said. "Today no section in Canada has a more serious municipal problem on its doorstep than Ontario."

KILLS MOTHER IN RESCUE ATTEMPT

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (AP).—A fifteen-year-old girl wanted to protect her mother. Instead she killed her.

The girl, Anna Maletta, picked up a pistol and fired, she said, in an attempt to prevent her father, James Maletta, from beating her mother, Jennie, thirty-eight, late last night.

One of the bullets entered the woman's heart, killing her. Four others struck the father. At the county hospital he is not expected to live.

Search had failed to reveal his whereabouts or whether he was alive or not.

That Body of Yours

THE ELECTRIC KNIFE—ELECTRO-SURGERY

You may wonder why more is not heard about the "electric knife" which was so popular just a few years ago.

As a matter of fact, the electric knife is actually being used more today than ever before, but it is not used in all cases requiring surgery, but only in certain selected cases. In these selected cases it is certainly of great value.

Prof. K. H. Bauer, professor of surgery at the University of Breslau, has reported on 500 operations performed by electro-surgery, as the electric knife is called.

By microscopic examinations it was shown that, although the wound heals more slowly with the electric knife than with the ordinary knife, and in some instances there was bleeding on the fifth day after the operation, nevertheless there were fewer cases of infection, and less shock after the operation by the electric knife.

The question is, "What patients may be operated on better with the electric knife than by the older method?"

The electric knife appears to be adapted especially to papillomas (wart-like growths) of the bladder, delicate nerve operations and also operations on "bleeders." Bleeders, as you know, present a difficult problem to the surgeon, as the bleeding is difficult to stop in these cases and is always attended by some danger.

It was found that operations on organs such as the kidney and liver, where there is hard, fibrous-like partitions in which the soft matter of the cells is deposited, give better results with the electric knife than with the ordinary knife. It would appear that the soft tissue enmeshed in these hard, fibrous bands is seared or scarred by the electric knife, so that no bleeding results or infection occurs.

The electric knife is also very effective in the removal of cancer. As the cancer cells appear to be more sensitive to heat than other cells, good results were also possible in cancer of the skin or other parts easily reached.

Another valuable point was that operation by the knife prevents any spread of cancer during operation, and if cancer occurs again it can be attacked even after several previous operations.

MAN OF MYSTERY TALKS IN PRISON

Paul Dewees Admits to Police He Is Fugitive From American Chain Gangs

HALIFAX, Aug. 30 (CP).—Paul Dewees, speechless mystery man who was found unconscious in a boat in Halifax harbor, nearly a fortnight ago, was able to talk tonight as the iron cell door of the city police station clicked behind him.

His long silence broken, he told police that he was a fugitive from justice with a prison record extending over a period of nine years. He expressed intense hatred for southern chain gangs from which he escaped.

Dewees unfolded a story of prison life that contained an episode in nearly every section of the United States.

Fingerprints received from the chief of police at Bellingham, Washington, showed that he was allegedly a fugitive from justice, it being claimed that he escaped from the Utah State and Louisiana State penitentiaries.

PREFERS ARCTIC TO NATIVE LAND

Aged Swede, Who Has Killed More Than 200 Polar Bears, Returning North

STOCKHOLM. — Making one of his rare visits to his home country, Andreas Qvarnstrom, who is seventy years old and has spent the last twenty-five years in the polar regions as fur hunter and coal mine employee, has been telling the newspapers something of his experiences.

In the last few years he has lived the Summer months as watchman at the coal mines in Spitzbergen, carrying on his trapping in the Winter. He tells of long Winter months spent in the frozen wastes without human companionship, of polar bears and Arctic foxes which have fallen to his rifle or been trapped by him. He estimates that he has secured the pelts of at least 200 bears.

VARIED EXPERIENCES

Qvarnstrom has been shipwrecked in the polar seas. He has had to swim in icy water when his boat capsized, and when he reached firm ice, his clothes froze so quickly as he pulled himself out of the water that he had to break the frozen cloth to be able to move his limbs.

In spite of his age and the hardships he has endured, Andreas is in the best of health. He still feels the call of the wild, and intends to return to his lonesome life in the inhospitable regions beyond the Polar Circle.

Local Artist Has Pictures Of Wild Life

Scenes of Indian and pioneer ranching life, painted by Mrs. Norah Drummond, of Victoria, are being shown in a collection of large paintings of wild-animal life of the Rocky Mountains placed on exhibition in the Wales Hotel Palmroom, Calgary, this month. Mrs. Drummond's paintings have been familiar to nearly all Victoria residents for years, and both originals and reproductions may be seen in a number of downtown shops almost any day of the year. She studied wild-animal life for many years while resident in the mountains, and much of her work has been specially executed for reproduction in the form of Christmas cards and calendars. Among the pictures by Mrs. Drummond included in the Calgary exhibition are one showing the coraling of range horses, timber wolves discovering a snow-shoe track, and black and brown bear by a stream.

Johnny was very hard on trousers. One day, while shopping with a friend, his mother bought cloth for a pair of trousers for Johnny, but ordered a good bit more than seemed necessary.

"Why do you get so much?" asked the friend who was with her.

"Oh," was the reply, "this is for reserved seats."

Gladys Glad On Beauty

In one of the Broadway shows in which I starred, the last Follies produced by Flo Ziegfeld, there was a young chorine who had quite a mania for ocean bathing. This girl would go to a local beach each day, spend the entire afternoon swimming about in the briny, and get to the theatre just in time to hop into her custume for the opening number.

I often wondered, when I saw her prancing about on the stage, how she managed to keep her hair in such perfect condition. Despite the fact that bathing caps help a great deal to keep the hair from becoming soaked, you know as well as I that some water always seems to manage to creep beneath the cap and dampen the hair. And as I told you in one of my columns not so long ago, when the hair becomes dampened with briny ocean water or hard lake or river water, it becomes dull, sticky and unattractive.

This young chorine's locks, however, always seemed soft, glossy and fluffy. And one day I asked her how she managed to keep it in this condition and, at the same time, do all the swimming that she customarily did. She grinned impishly and replied: "Merely by using the old head and a piece of chamois."

Her reply, of course, was rather mystifying. But when she went into further explanation about the matter, I had to admit that she had used that head of hers. According to her, the girl who likes her swimming, yet hates to have her hair soaked or her wave ruined by ocean water, can very simply prevent this. Before donning her bathing cap in preparation for that first plunge into the water, she should brush her hair upward from the hairline all around her head, and pin it securely on the top of her head. Then she should take a strip of ordinary chamois, about three inches wide, and bind it about her head so that it entirely covers the hairline. After this, she should don a snug bathing cap and put it on so that it entirely covers the chamois band. Try this system, if you dislike getting water in your ears, or getting your locks wet when you go swimming. You'll find it no end helpful in keeping your hair soft and fluffy, and perfect undulations in your wave.

To Lecture on Great Pyramid

A lecture on the ever-enthralling subject of the Great Pyramid, "the Altar of Witness," in the land of Egypt, will be given at the Victoria and District British-Israel Association meeting, in the Chamber of Commerce Hall, on Tuesday, September 4, at 8 p.m., by Mr. Eason, of Vancouver.

During this visit to Victoria, Mr. Eason will also address meetings in neighboring communities. He will speak on Monday at Royal Oak Hall; on Wednesday at Sidney, in Scout Hall; on Thursday at Gordon Head, and on Friday at Brentwood Hall.

PRIVATE VIEW OF PICTURES GIVEN

Water-Colors Made by Edmonton Artist Visiting Coast Shown at Oak Bay

Victoria, during the past ten days, has received the compliment of a second visit from the gifted young Edmonton artist, Llewellyn Petley Jones, who spent some time here last year sketching. At the Guest House, Newport Avenue, yesterday afternoon, he gave a private exhibition of some of the water colors he has done during his present visit to the Coast.

While unusual talent was apparent in the sketches he made here last year, his exhibition, yesterday, gave undeniable evidence of marked improvement not only in the facility with which he uses his brush, but in the handling of color and in his sense of composition. There is much greater freedom and spontaneity in all that pertains to the technique of water color, and his fine eclectic sense in regard to subject matter has resulted in delightful pictures of streets in Chinatown, bits of the waterside about the Japanese settlements along the Fraser, glimpses of various spots along the Vancouver Island coast. He has a fondness for nocturnes and twilight effects, fishing boats, broken-down wharves, and harbor scenes with mountains in the background, and presents them in an intimate human way that is very appealing. One feels that he will see with appreciative eyes the picturesque charm of London, where he is to spend the next year as an art student, after he leaves here.

NOTABLE EXHIBITS

Among the pictures he exhibited yesterday was one of Friday Harbor; two showing characteristic bits of Chinatown, Victoria; North Vancouver in a grey mist; Grouse Mountain, Vancouver, with a sturdy tug sheering off from the jetty in the foreground; old wharves and fishing smacks painted in rich browns and blues; more old wharves, with brown-gabled warehouses in the foreground and softly-limned mountains behind; a bit of Vancouver's waterfront shown in a cold light; "Close to Whiffin Spit," a snarl of twisted trees and fern in a shadowy forest; rocks at Sooke River; a stretch of Whiffin Spit, showing the bleached sand and piles; arbutus trees, a very fine study; two or three delightful nocturnes; and, to conclude, a dozen or so of his last year's sketches.

After viewing the pictures, guests yesterday were entertained informally at tea by Mr. Thomas Adamson, whose guest Mr. Jones is during his stay in Victoria.

What Today Means

"VIRGO"

If August 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m., from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a.m., from 1:15 to 3:15 p.m., and from 5:15 to 7:15 p.m.

On this August 31 it might be well, preliminary to starting the day's activities, to carefully plan your time. This may prevent certain influences, resulting from haphazard methods, causing a loss of it and creating confusion. It might prove profitable to take an interest in a friend's welfare, for later on he may be in a position to show appreciation by doing you a good turn.

If a nosey individual tries to get you to commit a breach of confidence, you will display good judgment not to trust this person to keep the information sought confidential. You may receive a letter which, if carelessly read, might be misconstrued, so exercise care, if you wish to avoid trouble.

If a rather irritating episode should occur today, you will find it will pay to think clearly and keep your temper. There might come to your attention a decidedly vicious practice in a certain line of business which, if you are wise, you will not countenance. Married and engaged couples, as well as those in the first stages of enthrallment, will avoid an unpleasant day if they refrain from "picking" on each other. Fault finding usually results in hard feelings and quarrels are not always easy to patch up. We can be kept busy trying to rectify our own shortcomings, so why bother about the other person's?

If a woman whose natal day is August 31, your artistic nature should not only enable you to get a great deal of joy out of life, but provide an excellent means for a very profitable livelihood. Singing, the playing and teaching of a musical instrument, or some form of the dramatic art, should provide a pleasant occupation for you. You can be happy either single or married, so with you it is simply a case of individual preference.

The child born on August 31, when it arrives at school age, may develop a love for melody. It might be a good idea to consult a good music teacher and accept his advice as to the musical instrument this child can master most readily.

If a man, and August 31 is your birthday, you are a great believer in the careful practice of the amenities of life in your daily contact with both men and women. This will gain you many friends in all the various walks of life, with the result that your popularity will prove a valuable asset both in a business as well as social way. The literary profession, as well as the medical or legal, should be ready to welcome you with open arms, should you engage in any one of them seriously.

Wedding to Take Place In England

BOHINSKO LAKE, Jugoslavia, Aug. 30 (AP).—A stately wedding in Westminster Abbey awaiting her a few months hence, pretty Princess Marina of Greece today began thinking about her trousseau.

The brunette daughter of Prince Nicolas of Greece plans to be married to Prince George in the wedding dress her mother wore when she was married at St. Petersburg thirty-two years ago.

The prince and princess have been little seen by the residents of this little Jugoslav mountain retreat. That has not prevented them from finding out, however, that the Princess is just as interested in her wedding wardrobe as any other young bride-to-be, and has already begun acquiring gowns and other feminine accessories for the event.

While the exact date of the state ceremony in Westminster Abbey has not been determined, it is thought the wedding will be held some time during the Winter.

The prince and princess took time off from their many social engagements to pose for photographers in the garden of Prince Paul's villa.

For the occasion Princess Marina wore a smart grey sports costume, while Prince George was attired in a lounge suit.

After both had shaken hands with all representatives of the press, they posed for the cameras. It was not necessary to ask them to smile.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP). — Says the most fastidious of Paris bachelors, M. Andre de Fouquieres: "Parisians definitely are abandoning that devil-may-care attitude in dressing, and are returning to the dignity, grace and elegance of other days."

Andre's brother, Becq de Fouquieres, is the "Chief of the Protocol" and regulates the department of presidents, ambassadors, ministers, and even kings on occasions bringing them here. Andre sets the style for unofficial folk when it comes to fashion and social custom.

"Formal evening attire," continues the perfect bachelor, "is the sole attire which is correct for a big dinner, a soiree, or a gala ball, and it steadily is resuming its vogue here. To be well dressed is an expression of optimism, and also a courageous manner of combating the crisis. To be well dressed gives confidence to oneself and to others; it cheers and beautifies the atmosphere, and clarifies the sky. We must defend Paris against the bad taste and pretentious ugliness of the hooligans who go about hatless, either to save money or to avoid saluting women whom they encounter. We must protect Paris against such vulgar ensembles as grey trousers, a green vest, a red muffler, a brown coat, a black and orange checker shirt."

The dinner jacket, he concludes, "is a masterpiece of vulgarity and ugliness when worn at a fashionable soiree." Tails and a high hat only, harmonize with the beauty of feminine finery for evening.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

Young People's Party

A delightful children's party was held at "Snugglewood," the home of Mrs. Thomas Todd, Ash Road, Gordon Head, on Tuesday evening, the affair being arranged as a finale of the Summer holidays. The gardens were illuminated with hundreds of tiny colored lights, which transformed it into a veritable fairyland, and flags added a bright note of color. A miniature active volcano was one of the most interesting features of the garden. Games and contests were enjoyed, and the evening ended with a weiner and corn roast. Mrs. Todd was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lauder Ramsay, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woolsey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, Mr. and Mrs. H. Holmes, and Mrs. Harry Todd. The winners of the games were Bert Boniface, Virginia Todd, Hugh Ramsay, H. Grant, June Todd, Grace Johnson, Mabel Viggers, and Mr. H. Holmes.

The Laughing Girl Mystery

CHAPTER XXX

"I still don't see," said Sheridan, "how you knew Coggs would remind me of Marlin."

"I didn't know," said Alby. "Everyone who spoke of Marlin mentioned his conspicuous features. No one seemed able to tell me what I wanted to know. So I had a midnight supper with Coggs, and discovered one trait that did help: In nervous or unoccupied moments he strums on the rungs or the under part of the seat of his chair. That suggested a new place to hunt for finger prints—museum chairs.

"But I had noticed the way Dinard's mind worked. An unseen laugh had stirred his unconscious memory of Daisy. His subconscious mind had noticed something familiar about a chair in the Coggs' apartment, a familiarity which came and went. Perhaps it was the placing of the chair? If Dinard could see Coggs, dressed as much as possible like Marlin, sitting in Marlin's chair, which unconsciously he might move to a familiar angle, perhaps we might get a definite recognition out of Dinard. So we kept Coggs waiting long enough for him to indulge his habit of strumming on chair rungs. At which moment we sent Dinard down the stairs. Dinard's unconscious mind did its stuff—recognized the gesture—the angle of the chair, and—a moment later—the set of Coggs' eyes—a slantwise set, which his son, Dinard's assistant, inherited and which Coggs' impersonations could disguise. In that moment when Dinard saw through the Coggs disguise to the actual eye-shape and slant, his mind made a characteristic short-cut. He recalled that only last Friday Marlin, sitting in that very chair, at that very angle, had folded some mail which hadn't been sent and upon which there might have been—and were—finger prints."

"Why the anonymous letter to me?" asked Dr. Coe.

"And why was I involved?" added Wilcox.

"Malice is the answer to those questions. He hated you all for the five irksome years as your servant. If he could break up a happy marriage and ruin a career, good."

"We could have arrested him several hours ago on those finger prints," Higgins put in. "But we hoped for what we got—fireworks, when we produced Willie."

"They threw a swell act," said one of the reporters. "But I'd like the beginning of the story——"

"Scotland Yard has just sent us a cable which reveals most of the story," Alby said. "Read it, Harrod."

Harrod read:

"Following is letter received by Gertrude Smiley from Daisy Satterly: 'Dear Gertrude, I can't even hint where I'm going, because I promised. But I didn't promise not keep a diary, so I'll start one and enclose it, but on your honor don't read it unless something happens to me, or it will bring me bad luck. Goodbye for a little while. Your loving Daisy.' Enclosed (the cable continues) was thin notebook containing the following:

"'Tomorrow I sail for America and fame, happy but frightened, too.

"'You—I mean Gertrude—will remember the gypsy five years ago that stopped me outside the theatre in Hull and said, "A great fortune awaits you, but tell no one or it will cause delay. Marriage in six years. An early marriage will bring disaster." Well I did tell Gertrude, because I didn't believe in fortune tellers then. But next week I heard of Cousin Asbury's fortune, that I couldn't have it till I was twenty-five. I'd have had the money sooner if I hadn't disobeyed the gypsy. Then six months ago a letter came from America signed Cousin Victor Salter, who is the husband mother's cousin Nan. He wrote that her best friend, a famous producer, had returned from England, where he had discovered a dancing genius in a traveling troupe in York and her name was Daisy Satterly, and after the depression he was going to look me up. Cousin Nan thought it might be me. Was my mother's name Janet? If so, say nothing of this correspondence to anyone, but send some family information no outsider would know. So, to prove I was the right one, I wrote him what I've never told anybody, the family disgrace which was that Asbury Sheridan's half-brother Dean died in prison. Cousin Asbury Sheridan fixed his will so Dean's children couldn't inherit. But they all died years ago, except Cousin Nan, who went into vaudeville. I met her only once when I was little, but I remember she taught me a dance. So I wrote all this and promised not to breathe a word. Cousin Victor wrote back, saying she had never recovered from the shock of losing their only child, but maybe I could be a daughter to her in her old age, and it would be pleasant to have someone of their own blood to inherit their estate when they died.'

"'But better than that, he promised me a chance on the stage some day. We wrote quite a few letters. Then Cousin Nan had a dream that when she got back to their New York flat from the doctor's, and opened the door, there was I, all grown up, in an old-fashioned pale blue costume, with puffed sleeves and a white wig. And if that dream could come true, she could die happy. So Cousin Victor wrote could I come immediately if he sent money for passage and the costume, and then we'd stage Cousin Nan's dream just as she dreamed it. And he said he'd seen the producer again, and as a result I am to be starred almost at once. But the producer thought I needed a catchier name, so Cousin Victor went to a numeralogist, and they thought up Diantha Sheridan, if I was willing. Of course I was.

"'So tomorrow I sail. I've made one mistake. I packed Cousin Victor's letters in my trunk. He asked me to bring them to prove I'm the right person. I'll explain about packing them by mistake. If only you—I mean Gertrude—could come too. But I'll send money for a ticket the minute I get some, which ought to be soon, since I'm a "genius."

(Signed)

"'Daisy Satterly, from now on Diantha Sheridan.'"

There was silence when Harrod finished the long cable.

"But I still don't understand how he planned the whole thing," said Sheridan, "for it must have been his work, that gypsy business with poor Daisy."

"Yes," said one of the reporters. "Give it to us straight on from the beginning, Alby."

"Very well. Six years ago, Coggs, alias Victor Verseter, and Nan, alias Vera Verseter, vaudeville impersonators, read in The London Times that Dr. Coe, famous archaeologist, and his assistants, Sheridan Dinard and Lester Wilcox, were visiting Dr. Wellington preparatory to an expedition into Egypt. Sheridan Dinard—that name in Asbury Sheridan's will represented one of the obstacles between a large fortune and the Verseter's son, Willian. The following year an alleged accident occurred; Asbury Sheridan and all his direct descendants were drowned when a bridge gave way. Now only Daisy and Dinard stood between William and a fortune. The gypsy at Daisy's stage door, probably a Verseter in disguise, fostered what superstition she had by foretelling delays if she told anyone the predictions. Both the fortune and the delay came true. Daisy, now, could be counted on not to marry and produce additional heirs before she could be murdered. Meanwhile Dinard must be attended to."

"You mean," Dr. Coe asked, "that the scheme was worked out six years ago?"

"Most of it. The versatile Versesters disappeared from the stage. Willie's confession says he and his mother came to America. His father, impersonating a drain inspector, got into Dr. Wellington's house, and 'by accident' dropped a weight on the real Marlin's hand, temporarily disabling it. Next day, in a new disguise, he presented a forged recommendation from a recently deceased archaeologist to Dr. Wellington. Marlin's bruised hand got him a temporary job. Coggs', or rather Verseter's, intention was to earn a recommendation from Dr. Wellington to present to Dr. Coe later. But luck played into his hand. Dr. Wellington was about to sell his collection and the real Marlin wished to emigrate to America."

"And then," Joey excitedly guessed ahead, "he went with Marlin, shoved him overboard, made himself up to look like Marlin, and got the job with Dr. Coe, where he could spy on Mr. Dinard."

"Right, Joey. But even the real Marlin probably did not recognize his cabin mate, for he crossed in disguise as a carpenter with a fake passport."

"But why did he wait so long for his murders?" Adelaide asked.

"He had to establish himself as an American, be forgotten as a Verseter, and bring about a situation which would make Dinard seem to have murdered Daisy. Once the state had electrocuted Dinard, Willie could be discovered in Australia, surprised at his good fortune.

"But the matter moved slowly; the perfect setting had not developed. Then two years ago Dinard met Adelaide Sayre. Miss Sayre and her aunt had lived for many years at their present address. So a Mr. Coggs sprang into being and went into the real estate business. He bought the house on Twelfth Street, another on Ninth and a place at Quapatuck."

"He must have had money."

"Mrs. Coggs had money. Her father was a successful counterfeiter for many years before he was caught. But they were greedy."

"What precipitated them just at this time?" Wilcox asked. "Dinard's engagement?"

"That and the fact that Daisy, after inheriting, could make a will of her own. And the very nearness to Daisy's twenty-fifty birthday made it a conspicuous time to make Dinard seem to murder her. Besides, Dinard must be got out of the way before his marriage to prevent a new obstacle—a possible heir. From this point the rest of the story, I imagine, is clear."

"I don't see how he managed his timing," said Sheridan, "and the changes in personality, especially Saturday. He reached the museum at ten-thirty and stayed till past one."

"Quite simple. He left his house about nine-thirty, having Oswald carry his bag to the street car. In the men's room at the Pennsylvania Station he met his son, who had a make-up box. Occupying adjoining toilet compartments, they followed the usual Saturday routine. William became Coggs, limped out, joined Mrs. Coggs and proceeded to Quapatuck. Coggs rechecked the make-up box and appeared at the museum as Marlin.

"After everyone had gone, he opened the cabinet with a key he had had made in advance, took the dagger, and then proceeded to remove all his fingerprints from the museum. As he was about to leave, he saw on Dinard's desk the statuette, which could easily be converted into a door knocker—and an additional clue. Dinard, he knew, was calling for Miss Sayre about six-thirty. He would, therefore, stage the murder about that time. He would not meet Daisy's ship, which docked at two, but would go home, wait for her telephone call, and have her arrive about five-thirty, visit with her and give her time to get into her costume. He decoyed Oswald to Ninth Street so that he would not, even in some disguise, be seen entering his apartment.

"The rest was easy," Alby continued. "Daisy waited two hours and telephoned. He told her to bring her trunk check and to come to his apartment after five. He drilled the peep-hole into the door, and just before she arrived attached the statuette.

"She arrived and changed her costume. They visited. He kept watch. He saw Dinard come in and start up the stairs. Then something—we'll never know what—must have made her laugh. Nervousness? Excitement? But the laugh was not according to plan. It had to be stopped. He stabbed her 'in the mid-peal,' as Dinard put it."

"He watched to see Sheridan and Adelaide come downstairs. He heard them talk with Oswald, and was ready for his getaway at the moment of Dinard's unforeseen return to get Miss Sayre's forgotten letter. While Dinard was upstairs, he opened the door, removed the statuette, and quickly plugged the hole with putty. From the window he saw Dinard drive off with Miss Sayre, then dashed up to her apartment and planted a scratch in her cupboard. Then in some unrecognizable character, probably unlike either Coggs or Marlin, he walked out of the house with Daisy's bag. When we find the bag, we'll doubtless find something of Dinard's planted in it.

"And all this while Willie was blatantly establishing Coggs' alibi in Quapatuck.

"A telephone message to Quapatuck told of the deed. Then he took Daisy's trunk check to somepressman whom he had spotted in advance, arranged for the time of delivery to the Hotel Astrakan, also chosen in advance. He telephoned to the Ballards, asked for Dinard, pretended to be Dr. Swithin, an English anthropologist, who had to see Dinard immediately at the Waldorf. That took Dinard away from the Ballards long enough to spoil his natural alibi. All Coggs had to do then was to watch the trunk being delivered, go into the hotel, open it, remove Daisy's letters and hurry back to the museum to get the telephone call he knew would come—the one from Dinard, asking about Dr. Swithin.

"On the way in, he dropped the statuette in the bushes. Then he replaced the dagger, leaving the case open to attract attention to it. He saw a chance to involve Dinard further by waiting and planting an angry letter of resignation.

"About this time he knew the police would be questioning Oswald, and that Oswald would have told about the door knocker and its mysterious disappearance.

"And then Dinard telephoned, gave him his chance to explode with outraged pride, to leave the typed note in the typewriter and get out.

"Then he went back to the Pennsylvania Station in time to meet Willie, as Coggs. And once more in the men's room they changed personalities. And Mr. Coggs then went back to 12th Street with his wife."

"Gosh!" said Joey.

"And then Willie," Higgins added, "made his big mistake. He wasn't content to let the law take its course. Instead he tried to bump Dinard off."

"But how did you know where to look for Willie?"

"We knew," said Alby, "that Coggs must have been getting letters from the girl. We did some guessing and visiting round, till we found the right postoffice. And, by a stroke of luck, Willie, calling for the last letter. We should have found him anyway. All outgoing steamers were being watched; we found a ticket for La Guaira in Willie's pocket."

"He sure must have been a swift luman-fly," said Joey, "to have got down off the roof and out of the black thing I saw him in and into his nightshirt before Burt and the other detectives got into the house.

"He was a lightning change artist. We found the black costume—acrobat's tights—while he and Mrs. Coggs were on their way to the museum this afternoon—tucked between the refrigerating coils of the icebox. And now," Alby stood up, "if—"

"Scuse me, boss," Oswald raised his gold-lettered superintendent's cap respectfully, "But don't nobody know where a married man kin get a job? Of course I'll stay and keep the fires going through Miss Sayre's wedding next Saturday—"

There was a burst of laughter. But Dinard smiled at Oswald. "Maybe I can put in a good word," he said. "Dr. Coe's going to need a new caretaker for the museum—"

"That's right nice of you, Mr. Dinard. I always did say you didn't seem like a murderin' man!"

THE END.

Tightwad—I didn't see you in church, Sunday.

Keen—I presume not; I took up the collection.

NOW EATS ANY KIND OF FOOD, AND NO CONSTIPATION

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter:

"Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic.

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation."—Mr. L. M. Durigan (address furnished upon request).

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Charge Alleging Violation of Motorcycle Rules Dismissed in Police Court

A charge laid against Ralph Holland of having ridden a motor vehicle contrary to the regulations laid down in the statute was dismissed in the city police court, yesterday, by James Forman and L. C. Lytton, justices of the peace. The charge was that the accused had ridden a motorcycle without being in the seat. Constable W. D. Bone testified that there were two on the machine and that the driver was partly on the tank.

The accused testified that he was sitting on the forward part of the seat, and his traveling companion corroborated this.

The court did not believe that the evidence established that there had been a violation of the statute, and accordingly dismissed the case.

CONSERVATIVES HOLD ANNUAL MEETING AT DUNCAN TOMORROW

The Nanaimo Federal Conservative Association will hold its annual meeting, at Duncan, tomorrow, at 2:30, in the Oddfellows Hall. The principal business will be the election of officers for the ensuing year.

C. H. Dickie, M.P., will be present and will give an address.

"Dad," said his son, "do you think they will ever find a substitute for gasoline?"

"They have one now, my son, and I wish you'd give it a trial."

"Oh!" queried the son incredulously. "I've never heard of it. What is it, anyway?"

"Shoe leather," explained dad.

Empress of Asia Due Here This Morning—President McKinley Sailing West Tomorrow

From California ports, the Pacific Steamship Lines Ss. Ruth Alexander arrived alongside Rithet Piers shortly before 11 o'clock last evening, bringing in sixty passengers for Island and Mainland points and landing fifty tons of general cargo for local consignees. The Ruth Alexander proceeded to Seattle shortly after midnight. She will be here again tomorrow night, southbound.

PRODUCERS GET NEEDED RELIEF

Silk Growers of Japan Assisted Appropriations for Crop Control

A programme of relief for raw silk producers, calling for an expenditure of 3,000,000 yen for the enforced storage of 64,000,000 pounds of cocoons and crop control on mulberry plantations, was approved by the Japanese Cabinet Council, early this month. The relief will apply to farmers now suffering acute economic distress in the raising of Summer and Autumn cocoons which, without government storage, would be dumped on an already falling market.

Of the 3,000,000 yen expenditure proposed by the Government, 1,500,000 yen will be taken from the second reserve fund and 1,500,000 yen will be appropriated from the relief works reserve fund, comprising 1,050,000 yen from the fund provided for economic recovery and 250,000 yen from the sum set aside to encourage the voluntary storage of dried cocoons. A subsidy of fifteen sen will be granted per kwan of eight pounds, which will require 1,200,000 yen. The sum of 750,000 yen will be expended for crop control on the plantations.

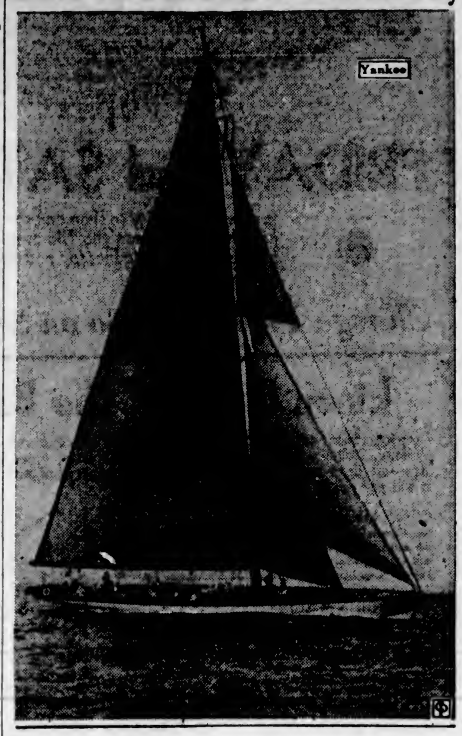
After approving the programme and arranging for the appropriations, the Cabinet Council decided the manner in which the Cabinet Ministers would pay their customary Summer calls on the Emperor and Empress, states Trans-Pacific. The Cabinet was divided into three groups, making their calls at different dates.

EXPEDITION FAILS TO CONNECT WITH VESSEL

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 30 (AP).—After a fruitless wait, the steamer Gertrude Rask has sailed from Angmagsalik, Greenland, without news from an expedition of three Englishmen which set out May 25 to cross the Greenland inland ice.

The expedition, composed of three men named Lindsay, Godfrey and Croft, failed to arrive at the port according to schedule, but Captain Einar Mikkelsen, Danish explorer, informed the Greenland board it was too early to feel unduly alarmed over the safety of the exploring party.

Lost to Rainbow Yesterday



NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 30 (AP)—Rainbow today defeated Yankee for the second straight time in the final test trials to select a defender of the America's Cup, crossing the finish line 2 minutes 21 seconds ahead of the Boston boat at the end of the thirty-mile triangular course.

Rainbow, with Harold A. Vanderbilt at the wheel, jumped away to a boat length's lead at the start and made every mark a winning one. She led by 2 minutes 11 seconds at the end of ten miles, lost some of this and held only a 1-minute-58-second lead at twenty miles, then increased her advantage on the last leg.

Counting the race of Tuesday, in which Yankee carried away some gear and had to abandon the test, it is three straight wins for Vanderbilt and Rainbow over Charles Francis Adams and Yankee, and strengthened her chances to be named the defender.

ORGANIZATION COMPLICATED

Japanese Household Industries Provide Many Articles for Export

Import houses in many countries have an incomplete knowledge of the Japanese industrial organization, states Trans-Pacific. It is natural enough for importers abroad to wish to deal direct with manufacturers, but in hundreds of Japanese lines this is almost impossible. Much of the strength of the Japanese organization rests on household industry, and many of the best export lines are its products. To deal with the maker would be to deal with a house so small that it could not fill the simplest order except after months of delay, with a house unequipped to handle correspondence in a foreign language, with a house enjoying no bank credit and without the most elementary knowledge of foreign trade procedure.

Some lines, of course, the paper continues, can be and are exported by the manufacturers. These lines are advertised. But if the importer does not see them advertised he had better take for granted that they are the products of household industry and content himself with dealing with sound export houses. A firm of experience working in Japan can save the importer the endless troubles which he would run into were he trying to deal direct with a manufacturer too small to know what export trade is about.

Take the button industry for example. These are almost entirely taken from household industry. The wholesale and export houses carry stocks of the main lines but farm out orders for less usual styles. A large order from abroad is liable to be filled by buttons made in a dozen or more establishments. Knot goods are generally handled the same way.

CANNED GOODS

In canned goods, the situation is as follows: The dealer imports tinned sheets and delivers them to the can-maker. The can-maker delivers his finished product to the canners. The canners pack the food and deliver their finished product to the dealer. The dealer then sells the canned goods (most often under his own brand), and remits their profits to the can-maker and to the canner. The dealer, by this method of operation, has provided the financing without which the canning industry could not exist. If the importer abroad wants to deal with a canner, he is apt to get a packer who is without the machinery or the experience to conduct an export trade. Moreover, he cannot finance it.

CUP DEFENDED BY TWO BOATS

Light and Heavy Weather Craft Used Alternately in Second Series

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP).—The New York Yacht Club had to use two yachts to stand off the challenge of James Ashbury's Livonia for the America's Cup in 1871. Ashbury was a man of pluck, and the defeat of his Cambria the year before only whetted his appetite for another try.

The negotiations preliminary to the acceptance of the challenge of the N.Y.Y.C. cup committee resulted in the race being limited to two boats—the challenger and the defender. Ashbury argued that the deed of the gift of the trophy did not allow any number of vessels to sail against a challenger, and he was upheld by the committee.

But the N.Y.Y.C. partially got around the ruling and was permitted to reserve four yachts from which to make a selection on the day of each race. The series consisted of seven races. Columbia sailed the first two races against Livonia and triumphed. Livonia the third race from Columbia.

Weather conditions suited Sappho better on the day of the fourth race and she received the call of the challenger. Sappho outsailed Livonia and repeated her triumph in the fifth, America retaining the cup, 4 to 1.

Ashbury claimed the sixth and seventh races when none of the four American boats was on the starting line either of those days. He argued that those two races, plus Livonia's victory over Columbia and his protest of the second race gave him the edge in the series, and he filed a claim for the cup, but he did not get it.

Longshore Workers Make Holiday at Beaver Lake

WATERFRONT workers enjoyed themselves thoroughly, yesterday, when they journeyed out to Beaver Lake with their families and friends and forgot all about the business of stowing away cargo on freight and passenger ships calling here.

Choosing a day when there was a slack period at the local docks, the Association of Transport Workers invited the Victoria Riggers and Stevedores to take the day off and unite with them for the day.

The invitation was accepted, and about two hundred in all journeyed out to the picnic grounds by the lakeside, leaving town at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Sports of all kinds were indulged in during the day, and there was plenty of spirited competition between the two organizations.

DOMINION SHOWS MYSTERY STORY

"Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," With Ronald Colman, Is Stirring Drama

It is the exception rather than the rule that a makeup expert is employed on a motion picture set when a company is working. There are less than ten pictures made in Hollywood each year that demand the minute attention of a makeup artist.

One of the few to rate attention of this sort recently was "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," Ronald Colman's first vehicle under his new starring contract, opening today at the Dominion Theatre.

Of the many members of the distinguished cast, Warner Oland, that perennial portrayer of insidious Orientals, would very naturally be supposed to have absorbed the lion's share of Jack Dawn, the 20th Century makeup man's time and effort. But the fact of the matter is that, although a Swede by birth, Oland's features chance to carry a distinctly Oriental cast, and he uses no makeup.

Although Ronald Colman, the star of the piece, and Charles Butterworth, who plays Algy, Drummond's fatuous friend and aid, use no makeup, Colman had occasion, nevertheless, to seek the aid of the makeup man during the shooting of the picture.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Most of the fan mail received by Larry Crabbe, the Olympic swimming champion, featured in Paramount's "You're Telling Me," starring W. C. Fields, and now playing at the Columbia Theatre, comes from youths who want to know how to keep in condition, as he does. Crabbe's invariable response is: "Swimming and clean living."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Gloria Stuart is an accomplished wood carver, having learned the art from her husband, outstanding artist and sculptor of the Hollywood film colony. Miss Stuart is now appearing on the screen of the Playhouse Theatre in "The Love Captive," the strange Universal drama in which she is featured with Niles Asther.

EMPIRE THEATRE The four Burton Sisters, a clever group of entertainers, late of the Cocoanut Grove, are attracting large crowds to the Empire Theatre this week, with their unusual dancing. These dancers, along with several other acts, mark the return of the Orpheum Circuit to this city. Richard Arlen is seen on the screen in "Come On Marines," a lively and romantic story of the soldiers of the sea.

COOPER AND BEERY IN COMING CAPITOL FILM

The latest in romances has been discovered to exist between Jackie Cooper and Carol Ann Beery, three-year-old daughter of Wallace Beery. While on location at Catalina Island for scenes in "Treasure Island," Carol Ann greeted Jackie with a great big kiss every time she saw him. After several days of such affection Jackie presented the young lady with a bracelet. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filmization of the celebrated Stevenson narrative of pirate adventure reunites Cooper and Beery, his pal of "The Champ" and "The Bowery."

"AFFAIRS OF CELLINI" FOR MIDNIGHT MATINEE

Constance Bennett has acquired a nickname that shows every indication of sticking.

Everyone calls her "The Duchess." When she enters a cafe or walks across the United Artists lot the remark: "There goes the Duchess" is invariably heard.

The new nickname was pinned on her during the filming of 20th Century's comedy, "The Affairs of Cellini," the midnight show at the Capitol Theatre, Sunday night, in which she plays the Duchess of Florence, opposite her co-star, Fredric March. Director Gregory La Cava, who has a habit of calling players by their character names, started it when he referred to Connie as "the Duchess" the day the picture was put into production—now she's stuck with it.

Anchorage Pilot Takes Two Weeks For Trip South

Two weeks out of Point Barrow, Alaska, Pilot Woodley, head of the Woodley Airways, of Anchorage, brought his seaplane into All Bay, near Sidney, shortly before eleven o'clock yesterday morning after battling fog and heavy weather on the entire trip from the North.

After refuelling, Woodley, with his five passengers, took off for Seattle on their way to San Francisco. The plane left at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

In the party from the North were: Charles Brower, trader and explorer, of Point Barrow, who, last April, managed the Wilkins exploration party in the Northern lands; his son, Robert, and daughter, Jennie M., who is on her way to San Francisco to take a post-graduate course in medicine. Miss Beverley Morgan, also of Point Barrow, and Mrs. Carter, of Ketchikan, were also with the party.

SCHOOL HAS FINE RECORD

Enviable Traditions Established in Work and Play at Mount Tolmie

After twenty-eight years of steady expansion the University School, just two and one-half miles out of Victoria, looks back on an enviable record of traditions established and the highest standards adhered to. The year 1906 saw the birth of this leading institution, and it was under far more humble circumstances then than the fine buildings testify to today. Rev. W. W. Bolton, together with J. C. Barnacle, was the original founder of the University School. Being joined by the late Captain R. V. Harvey in the following year. Now the grounds and buildings are capable of accommodating over 140 boarders.

In situation, the University School holds unique attractions, being at once within easy reach of the city, yet in a country setting. Lying on the slopes of Mount Tolmie, and with the magnificent panorama of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and the Olympic Mountains stretching away in the distance, the school stands in the heart of practically twenty acres of privately-owned grounds, laid out in lawns, shrubberies and playing fields.

FINE BUILDINGS

There are three large brick buildings, the School House, the Harvey House, and the Classroom Building. The former is the senior house, receiving boys from the age of fourteen upwards. The Harvey House is for the accommodation of the younger boys, ranging in age from six and one-half to thirteen years. The dining-room, gymnasium, swimming pool and rifle range are in separate buildings.

The curriculum is closely allied to that provided by the Provincial Department of Education, preparing the boys for the universities of Canada and Great Britain as well as those of the United States. Special coaching is given to those who wish to enter the Royal Military College, the Royal Canadian Navy or the Imperial services.

The syllabus of work and play is carefully worked out with the welfare of the boys in mind. Organized games, recognized as the greatest aid to character building which can be given, take a large place in the school life. The well-equipped gymnasium is supplemented by regular open-air physical training. Rugby football is one of the most popular games, and the prowess achieved in this direction is proved by the capture by the school team of the intermediate championship of British Columbia for two years. Cricket, tennis, golf, and association football are also played. Riding lessons are available by arrangement, and swimming may be enjoyed the year round in the heated swimming tank.

A miniature rifle range allows the training of the boys as rifle shots, and many trophies and awards have been won by the boys, contesting in famous meets. Boxing and field sports are added to the long list of athletic training.

INDIVIDUAL SUPERVISION

The policy of the school is one of personal supervision of each individual boy, both in work and at play. Physical welfare must inevitably follow the splendid open-air training and the carefully-planned meals, for which the school has won a name. A medical officer is attached to the school, making weekly inspections and available at a moment's notice.

The school is conducted under the supervision of George M. Billings, B.A. (Oxon.), and with him work a highly-trained staff of masters. Mr. Billings has had a comprehensive experience, which includes control of schools both in the Orient and in Canada.

Jones (to neighbor painting his fence)—Are you going to put a wet paint sign on your fence?

Neighbor—Not on your life! Do you think I want to have finger marks all over it?

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A BRIDGE SOUVENIR

Practically every bridge player treasures in his memory a few thrilling hands which he played so well and of which he was so proud that the impression they have made upon him can never be effaced. Forever after, when in the course of an evening's bridge he suffered a temporary lapse and commits some horrible error in bidding or play, he can salve his lacerated vanity with a brief mental review of his pristine brilliancies.

Being a bridge player, I have my own prized collection of bridge souvenirs, and when I found it expedient last night to pick one out and fondle it I chanced upon one which has remained heretofore unrecorded. It happened years ago in a duplicate game. My partner did not notice it, nor did my opponents. The innate modesty and self-effacement for which I am famous caused me to refrain from pointing out what I had done, and as no one asked me to explain, the hand was soon forgotten. Now here it is resurrected:

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	1NT	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

I was South, and I am willing to admit that my jump rebid of three spades was stretched a trifle. My partner likewise was somewhat forward in raising me to four with only a doubleton in trumps and (so far as he knew) nothing else of value. Nevertheless, we arrived at four spades and then it was up to me to make it.

West opened the club king, and then led the six of diamonds. On this East played the ace and I dropped the ten. East returned the six of clubs, and West, after winning my queen with his ace, led the deuce of hearts, whereupon I was in with the king.

At this point it would appear from my point of view that the success of my contract would depend upon avoiding the loss of a spade trick. I had lost three tricks, and except for the trump suit every card in my hand was high. But before proceeding to play out the spades I paused to consider two possibilities.

First, East had seemed very anxious, after winning with his ace of diamonds, to get the club trick in. It seemed very unlikely that the diamond queen in dummy might furnish me a discard, but East had not taken any chances.

This was some indication that East must be fairly sure of winning the setting trick and he could not be sure unless he not only held the spade queen, but held it so well guarded that he would have been able to withstand a finesse. Another thing which occurred to me was that West probably had four clubs, and, having shown four hearts by his lead of the deuce, was very likely to be short in spades.

In case East had four spades the hand could not be made by merely finessing. In any case, I thought I would try to find out something about the club distribution. So I led the jack of diamonds and overtook it with dummy's queen. Next I led the club seven from dummy and East's jack fell, whereupon I ruffed with the spade eight. After cashing the ace of hearts I led the diamond deuce which I had so carefully saved, and the diamond nine furnished a much needed entry to dummy. The next lead from dummy was the club ten, and East was powerless. If he discarded his last heart, I would discard the diamond king. I would then ruff a heart, topping any spade East might play, and re-enter dummy by means of the spade ace to take a final finesse for the last two tricks.

If on the lead of the club ten East ruffed, I would simply overruff, go over to the spade ace, finesse for the queen, lead out the last trump with my king and cash the king of diamonds. By no play could East prevent me from making the four spade contract.

East chose to ruff the club, whereupon the play proceeded as I have described it. The final result could not have been achieved by any other line of play, but East only shook his head wearily and observed that he probably shouldn't have trumped the club.

TOMORROW's HAND

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

This hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

SIX VICTORIANS ATTEND SESSIONS

One hundred and twenty-five of the leading producers of The Great-West Life Assurance Company's agents during the eighteen-month period ending June 30, 1934, will be in attendance at the company's conventions being held at Murray Bay, Que., and Jasper, Alta. Indicative of business conditions in Victoria, it is interesting to note that the Vancouver Island Branch has qualified six of its members amongst the leaders.

These representatives are: J. H. Croft, vice - president for British Columbia, of the Hundred Thousand Club; Captain A. M. Aitken, Captain T. H. Brown, J. Burgess, A. J. Humphries and H. Despard Twigg, who are leaving for Jasper Park on Sunday next.

The Victoria branch has also been successful in qualifying its manager, J. R. Nicolson, C.L.U., for attendance at the convention, by producing a larger quota of business in the first seven months of 1934 than any other Western office. Mr. Nicolson leaves for Edmonton tomorrow to attend the company's Western managers' conference, before proceeding to the convention at Jasper.

The Tigers in Happy Mood on Way to Flag

Sifting along with a comfortable lead over the New York Yankees are the happy Detroit Tigers, sensations of the 1934 baseball season. The above layout of smiling pictures shows Mickey Cochrane (centre), first-year manager and catcher, calling words of encouragement to his team. Upper left, "Goose" Goslin, outfielder and heavy hitter, in a happy frame of mind over his batting average, while upper right, Harry Greenburg, sensational young first baseman, smiles happily at having made a regular place on a winning team. Below, Charlie Gehringer, who is always a bit serious, chooses his trusty bat to further the cause of the Tigers. He is a veteran of many years with the Tigers and one of the best second basemen in the game. Below, Cochrane (left) and Ty Cobb, one of the most famous Tigers who ever lived, discuss the team's chances for the world series, something Detroit hasn't been able to talk about for twenty-five years.

LOCAL ELEVENS TO GET UNDER WAY IN THREE WEEKS' TIME

Possibility of Six Teams Forming Victoria First Division This Season—Jokers and Royal Oak Juniors File Applications for Franchises —Season to Finish Earlier

Soccer teams in the Victoria Division of the Pacific Coast League, in keeping with those on the Mainland, will usher in the 1934 - 35 season on Saturday, Sept. 22, it was learned here yesterday. No definite announcement of the opening fixtures or of the clubs that will comprise the senior loop, was available, as the date for the filing of entries has yet to be set. Esquimalt, last year's champions, Victoria West, Victoria City, and the Saanich Thistles, are figured as sure starters, while it is a known fact that the Jokers and Royal Oak, leading junior soccer teams last year, have made application to the British Columbia commission to enter the senior division in this city. No decision has yet been reached in this connection.

MAY CHANGE SERIES

An announcement of more than usual interest to Victoria soccer club managers, players and fans, was made yesterday, to the effect that the British Columbia Commission will submit to the Dominion Football Association a proposal that the Connaught Cup series start in the Fall instead of during the Summer months, to permit completion of the Pacific Coast soccer season in May. In previous years the final of the Dominion series ran well into the Summer months, and as far as the clubs on the Pacific Coast are concerned, is what might be termed a post-season series. In Victoria, in particular, the clubs after finishing their regular competitions, have to wait around to compete in the Connaught Cup competition. Adoption by the Dominion body of the proposal to be advanced by the British Columbia Commission, would, in the opinion of local soccer heads, prove very popular, and should give the British Columbia teams a better chance in the series.

PLAY-OFF SYSTEM

The commission plans to institute play-offs among the first three teams in each league this season. The same leagues as last year, intercity and first and second division Vancouver and District League, will be operated in Vancouver, with a senior league in Victoria.

The commission is working on a plan to permit players registered for teams playing Saturday football to play in a Wednesday League under the jurisdiction of the committee, in the belief that such a move would furnish Wednesday fans with a better brand of soccer.

Whether or not this ruling would apply to the Victoria and District Wednesday Football League could not be ascertained yesterday. For a number of seasons the local mid-week loop has operated very successfully as an independent organization, and as far as is known at present, will continue to do so.

Applications for berths in the Inter-City League have been received from the Art Monument under the name of Vancouver Rangers and from the Maccabees, Columbia Hotel, Young Italians, and Johnson National Storage, who operated in the second division last year, have applied for permission to compete in the first division of the Vancouver and District League.

Victoria, it was learned yesterday, will continue to play in the Inter-City League.

JACK MATSON ADVANCES TO SEMI-FINALS

Local Southpaw Scores Fine Win—Mrs. Sayward-Wilson in Final

JASPER PARK LODGE, Alta., Aug. 30.—As a result of four splendidly-played matches, here today, for the totem pole championship, Calgary faded out of the picture, and tonight, Vancouver has two players, Victoria, one, and Minneapolis occupies the fourth bracket. In the women's championship, the final, tomorrow, will be between Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, of Victoria, and Mrs. Eadie, of Vancouver, so to sum up, United States has a lone representative in the six places left for the two major championships.

In the men's championship, today, Arkell beat Hopkins on the eighteenth green. Both are Vancouver players and Hopkins was the medalist in the qualifying round. Ben Cool, Calgary, former runner-up, lost to S. P. Powell, Vancouver, one up. Archer Toole, Calgary, carried J. B. Faegre, Minneapolis, to the nineteenth hole before he would acknowledge defeat. Jack Matson, Victoria, beat Herb Black, Calgary, one up, in a stirring battle. In the women's championship, Mrs. Silcock lost to Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, Victoria, five and three in the top half, and Mrs. Eadie, Vancouver, won from Mrs. J. K. Holloway, Seattle, one up.

CLOSE BATTLE

The feature match of the day which attracted a huge gallery was between Matson, the hard-hitting left hander from Victoria, and little Herbie Black, Calgary. It was a stirring battle throughout in which both players finished only two strokes over par figures. They made the turn square but Matson went one up at the tenth by holing a curling putt for a birdie. He took the eleventh one over par.

Black won the long thirteenth with a grand shot from a trap, and the fourteenth was a half.

Black won the short fifteenth and the sixteenth was a half. Matson caught the seventeenth green with wlo spanking shots against the wind while Black hooked his spoon to the left trap. Matson won with a four.

Matson was on the eighteenth with two long hits with Black at the left. Matson was dead to the cup with his approach, and when Black failed to hole a long putt for a par he conceded the match.

On Friday, Matson will meet S. P. Powell, of Vancouver, in the lower half, and J. B. Faegre, Minneapolis, will meet R. Arkell, Vancouver, in the top half.

Men's flight games for tomorrow are:

First Flight

H. McLeod, Edmonton, meets N. White, Winnipeg, and F. Sayward-Wilson, Victoria, meets Mason Phelps, Chicago.

Second Flight

S. Small, Vancouver, meets H. Keough, Saskatoon, and Barney Stanley, Edmonton, meets F. R. Burkam, Los Angeles.

HUOT CAPTURES GOLF LAURELS

Quebec Professional Wins Canadian Crown at Montreal—Second Victory in Week

MONTREAL, Aug. 30 (CP).—Jules Huot, Quebec shotmaker, scored his second major triumph within a week, today, when he captured the championship of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association at their seventy-two-hole medal-round tournament at the Country Club. He aggregated 279.

Huot, through his victory, took over another title from Willie Lamb, Toronto, the defending titleholder. Last Friday, out at Kanawaki, the brilliant twenty-five-year-old French Canadian professional dethroned Lamb as Quebec open champion.

Lex Robson, Islington, Ont., had 285 and took the runner-up's place. Bobby Alston, Ottawa, with 288, took third position.

IRISH FOOTBALL

BELFAST, Aug. 29 (CP).—Ballymena United, playing at home, was defeated today by Linfield, 4-2, in the first round series for the Irish Gold Cup.

W. H. PENDRAY TO LEAVE CITY

Well-Known Cricketer Will Sail Early Next Month for Africa

Victoria cricket is soon to lose one of its veteran players and hard workers for the game, with the departure early next month for Johannesburg, Africa, of W. H. Pendray. He will make his final appearance on a Victoria eleven, tomorrow afternoon, at Beacon Hill, when he plays for the Five C's against the visiting Seattle team. The fixture will get under way at 1:45 o'clock, and it is expected that a large number of fans will be on hand to bid the popular cricketer adieu.

Always anxious to help in the improvement of the game here, Pendray was responsible for the introduction of the grass wickets at Beacon Hill, which, according to league officials, have proved so popular with the players. For three years he was chairman of the schedule committee, whose work it was to arrange local fixtures, and was also captain of the Five C's Wednesday League eleven for five years. For a number of seasons Pendray has played with the Albions Club in the Saturday League.

Known for his bowling ability on the playing field, Pendray has taken an average of 100 wickets a season for the past seven years.

MANY FINE DOGS WILL BE ENTERED

Victoria Gun Dog Club Trials on Sunday Will Be Keenly Contested

A record entry is assured for the hunting dog trials for pointers and setters which will take place on the Matson Farm, North Saanich, on Sunday, September 2.

Fourteen entries have already been received and enough more have promised to insure that more than twenty of Vancouver Island's best bird dogs will be seen in competition.

Among the entries received are Tom Brown's Pep, winner of the Spring trial, and Jack Rithet's well-known Sport, winner of many contests, both at Victoria and Nanaimo.

Entries will be received any time up to the start of the trials. Arrangements have been made for the contestants to meet at 9 o'clock on the School Cross Road, near the Matson Home.

William Grieves, of Nanaimo, an experienced hunter and breeder of pointers and setters, will decide the merits of the contestants.

The public is cordially invited to attend the trials. Further particulars can be obtained by telephoning the secretary at E 1261.

MAKO STOPS HALL'S BID FOR HONORS

Los Angeles Youngster Springs Surprise in Eastern Net Meet

RYE, N.Y., Aug. 30 (AP).—Gene Mako, Los Angeles youngster, who holds the United States junior and intercollegiate titles, blasted his way past J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N.J., veteran, today, to reach the semi-finals of the Eastern United States grass court tennis championships, along with Frank Shields, Frankie Parker and George Lott.

Racing through the first five games without a break, Mako went on to hand Hall a 6-4, 7-5 beating in the only major surprise of the day.

Shields, seeded No. 1, won the first seven games in succession as he eliminated Clifford Sutter, 6-0, 6-4. Parker was just as completely in control of the situation as he ousted Jack Tidball, of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-3. Lott pushed his way into the last four at the expense of Berkeley Bell, of New York, 6-1, 6-3.

The pairings tomorrow call for Parker to face Mako and Shields to engage Lott.

INVADERS ADVANCE

The semi-finals also were reached in women's singles, with Baroness Maud Levi, of Minden, Nev., and the three British stars, Betty Nuthall, Katherine Stammers and Freda James as the survivors.

Miss Stammers eliminated Jane Sharp, of Pasadena, Cal., 6-3, 6-1; Miss Nuthall won from Theodosia Smith, Oakland, Cal., 6-2, 6-1, and Miss James scored over Norma Taubele, New York, 6-0, 7-5.

SWIM EVENT SET TODAY

Twice Postponed C.N. Marathon Scheduled to Take Place This Morning

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP).—Twice postponed, the Canadian National Exhibition's fifteen-mile water marathon for men swimmers was scheduled to start at 9 a.m. E.S.T., tomorrow. Chilled by biting winds, the water of Lake Ontario was too cold, today and Wednesday, for exhibition officials to permit the grind.

About 100 ace swimmers waited hopefully, tonight, scanning weather and water temperature reports, ready to take the plunge. The lake was 60 degrees and an on-shore wind made officials optimistic about the chances of staging the big swim tomorrow. The temperature must be 62 degrees or better before the swim is permitted.

Satisfied Guest—Well, waiter, that was a tiptop dinner. You know what that means, don't you?

Colored Waiter—Yes, suh. It's one that you top off with a tip.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Break Spikes With His Teeth—Francois Russell does an interesting act for his audiences at the World's Fair in Chicago, not one, but two, both of which seem impossible to anyone who hasn't actually seen him work. Russell drives a sixty-penny nail into a block of wood, and then breaks the nail completely in two with his teeth. The nail is a standard bridge spike, and is subject to inspection by anyone to prove that the nail is a standard iron spike. Then, just for extra measure, Russell takes his bed of sharp spikes, lies back down on the points, and supports three men standing on his chest.

Round About Commuter—H. S. Brown lives only five miles from the site of his occupation, yet must travel more than forty-one miles each day to and from work. Brown lives in Chevy Chase, Maryland, and works at Magnolia, Maryland, which is just five miles away, but is across a river where there is no bridge. Consequently, he must walk two miles to catch a train for Baltimore, thence back on another train to Magnolia.

HEAVY LIST OF SOCCER GAMES SET

Full Schedule Booked in Old Country Tomorrow—Many Players Injured

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Although the soccer season is but a week old, the crowded match programme has already taken heavy toll. Numerous players have been injured. Lineups for Saturday games are in many cases uncertain.

Newcastle United, which dropped from the first to the second division of the league this season, is not finding things too easy on the lower plane. Leading the casualty list so far, Newcastle has had nine men hurt in two games. Make-up of the team for the game against Brentford is still undecided.

Four players—Oakton, Norton, Craig and Barber—of first division Chelsea team, were injured in the game last evening against Sheffield Wednesday. They are in doubtful shape for the tussle with Leicester City at the week-end. Tottenham Hotspura have their Welsh international, O'Callaghan, on the injured list. In the game with Huddersfield, Saturday, L. Howe will take O'Callaghan's post of inside right.

ARSENAL'S TEAM

Arsenal's team for the game against Liverpool will probably take in Moss, Male, Hapgood, Hill, Roberts, Copping, Hulme, Boweden, Drake, James and Bastin. It is expected Hapgood will have recovered from his recent injuries.

McGrory, captain of the Stoke City team, who received a severe kick in the waist between thighbone and ribs last Monday, hopes to be able to play with his team against Birmingham on Saturday.

Bolton Wanderers, in the second division, is one of the few clubs in the league in a condition to place an unchanged team on the field next Saturday. They play against Bury.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE

GLASGOW, Aug. 30 (CP).—Interesting battles will feature Scottish football this week-end with the tidbit of the schedule the game between Albion Rovers and Motherwell on the formers' grounds. While the Rovers, promoted from the second division at the end of last season, have not done so well in this year's tussles as their formidable opponents, they will be certain to put up a stout game.

Rangers, who provided last Saturday's surprise by falling before Dundee, will meet their neighbors, Partick Thistle, at Ibrox Park. Partick have won two games this season, while the Rangers have three to their credit. The other promoted team, Dunfermline Athletic, probably will find the strong Aberdeen team too much for them on the Northerners' ground.

LEADERS FACE FALKIRK

Clyde, leaders of the first division, play Falkirk, who have yet to win a game.

In the second division Raith Rovers will put up a strong battle at Dundee, where the United hope to lower the unbeaten Rovers' colors. Cowdenbeath, relegated last season, play St. Bernards. Third Lanark, who accompanied Cowdenbeath into the lower circle, are runners-up to Raith, and on Saturday take on the Athletics, at Leith.

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX MORRISON

Making a practice swing toward anyone is about as dangerous as pointing a loaded gun at the person.

You may swing 100 times without hitting the ground or sending a divot flying in the direction of your audience. But, it invariably happens, there'll be one time when you'll hit a stone or brick in such a way as to send it right at some person's face.

There is never any occasion for this.

You can swing in another direction, and if you are concerned about others walking into your swing, then walk away until you are a safe distance from everyone.

Otherwise don't swing at all.

NANAIMO RUGGERS MUST GET SETTLED

VANCOUVER, Aug. 30 (CP).—Nanaimo City Rugby Club executive were given two weeks to iron out their differences before their application for 1934 membership in the Vancouver English Rugby Union would be accepted. The action was taken after a lengthy meeting of the Vancouver union, here.

The Nanaimo delegate stated that the Nanaimo City Club and the Hornets Club, a recently-formed body, could not agree and that both organizations wished to enter teams.

President Maurice Crehan, of the Vancouver union, declared there was no opposition to the number of teams Nanaimo wished to enter, but that only one club could be accepted.

McLARNIN AND ROSS TRAINING HARD FOR FIGHT

Both Principals Appear in Good Shape for Bout

Welter Titleholder Goes Through Last Hard Workout for Fifteen-Round Mix With Vancouver Irishman, September 6—McLarnin Is Praised by New York Scribe

By BOB CAVAGNARO
Associated Press Sports Writer.

FERNDALE, N.Y., Aug. 30 (AP).—As cool as the weather in his Catskill Mountain camp, Barney Ross, today, took his last hard workout for his forthcoming fifteen-round welterweight title defence against Jimmy McLarnin, then heard himself extolled as the "perfect athlete."

Neither the workout, the praise, nor a physical examination appeared to ruffle the Chicago youngster who will dare the jinx of Madison Square Garden bowl, where no champion has successfully defended his crown, next Thursday night, against the hard-hitting Vancouver Irishman from whom he took the title last May.

LOOKS GOOD

"He's the perfect athlete," said Brown after watching Barney go three fast rounds with his two sparring partners. Then do three more rounds of rope - skipping and shadow boxing.

Brown's sentiments were echoed by Dr. Vincent Nardiello, commission physician, who gave Ross an exhaustive examination.

Ross reached the peak of his training yesterday when he did six full rounds of boxing, and will taper off now from day to day.

Weighing 138 1-2 pounds — the weight he expects to hold when he steps on the scales in New York next Thursday afternoon — Ross bubbled over with energy.

"I'm ready for McLarnin right now," Ross said. "I'm confident, but not over-confident. I whipped him in May and I'm double sure I can do it again."

PRAISES JIMMY

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (CP).—The regiments of boxing followers who dote on the doings of Jimmy McLarnin, had the reassuring word today that the Vancouver bomber is a "beautifully conditioned athlete, mentally as well as physically."

The descriptive words belong to Ed Frayne, sporting editor of The New York American. Frayne made the report after a trip yesterday to the camp at Orangeburg, N.Y.

Impelling Frayne's visit were disturbing reports that Shamus was not looking so good in his workouts. Manager "Pop" Foster decreed two days of rest this week for the hard-clouting welter, and certain gentlemen of the press suggested the veteran "Pop" hadn't much idea what he was doing.

In rebuttal, Frayne wrote:

"If Ross is growing chesty over the mournful tales that have come out of the training camp in the past week, there will be violent and painful surprises at Madison Square Garden bowl September 6.

MANY AT CAMP

"Hundreds sat around the tiny outdoor ring and watched McLarnin go through six hard rounds, three with Eddie Flynn, former national welter champion, and three with Mike Licarci, of Brooklyn.

"To a boxing man watching McLarnin, there were flaws in his exhibition. He was long with his right hits and short with his lefts. In short, his timing was bad.

"But to those who have followed Jimmy through the years, he demonstrated that he is timing himself rather than his boxing. Nine days will put McLarnin at his peak. A day more and he goes stale. It is a delicate job adjusting his work to give him enough and yet not too much, and it is being handled marvelously for this match."

McKechnie Cup Rugby Fixtures May Be Resumed

VANCOUVER, Aug. 30 (CP).—Delegates to the Vancouver Rugby Union's annual general meeting reversed the stand of their board of control with regard to McKechnie Cup games.

The board had moved at a meeting of the British Columbia Rugby Union, last season, that McKechnie Cup competition be suspended for a year as it was proving a drain on the union's financial reserve.

The union decided, however, following the strong pleas of Jack Tyrwhitt, Varsity coach, and Bert Barratt, occasional captain, that a motion be put before the next meeting of the British Columbia body for resumption of McKechnie Cup games on the most profitable basis possible.

Fred Perry Scents Danger in Shields and Wood in U.S. Classic

English Net Wizard Thinks That Two Ranking Americans Will Have to Be Watched in Singles Championship—Praises Both

(This is the third of a series of dispatches in which Fred J. Perry gives an estimate of the rivals he will meet at Forest Hills.)

By FRED J. PERRY
(Copyright, 1934, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Two boys came to represent America in the Davis Cup in 1931 and played Wimbledon as a preliminary. They reached the final and one defaulted through an injured ankle. The names of those two are Sidney Wood and Frank Shields. Thus, two records were broken. The first was that, for the first time, the Wimbledon title was won on a default and, secondly, it was the first time in history that the Wimbledon title had not been played. I am reminded, as the defence of my American title approaches, that these two boys astounded England by their great play. I am also reminded that, at a dinner during that championship meeting, an official of the Wimbledon Club said in a speech that America had placed its faith in "Wooden Shields," and that these shields were not adequate defence in present-day battle.

FRED PERRY

His simile and argument in defence of it seemed to break down when Wood and Shields cantered through to the final of the Wimbledon championship, but he proved to be right when they failed in their Davis Cup quest against us on the sanded court at Auteuil. When we went into the challenge round, a month or so ago, in defence of the trophy against that same combination, the margin was very close—ever so close.

SHIELDS TRAINS WELL

Of all the American contestants in England, none has ever practised so assiduously and diligently as Frank Shields. He seemed to be on the court from morning until night trying to get himself in shape for the big clash. Never in the history of the game has anyone ever played himself to a standstill the way Frank did in that tournament. To use your own words, he was "dead but he wouldn't lie down."

Frank Shields has got to the top by sheer determination and grit. If one is a born tennis player, the rest is comparatively easy. But Shields is definitely no natural player. He has a peculiar style. His game has its limitations, but those limitations expand greatly when backed up by a determination such as he has. His service is one of the finest in the game—if not the finest—but I do not consider it as good this year as previously. The percentage of double faults is much higher. It seems to me that, in an effort to gain a little more pace, he has lost his accuracy on the first delivery and reliability on the second.

His forehand, hit rather in a windmill fashion, is faster than before and a little more accurate. A Winter of diligent practice on the backhand shot has shown good results already. This wing is much more reliable than hitherto.

I watched him very closely while he was in England. There can be no question about it—his game has improved a great deal. But, when opposed to a type of game such as that played by "Bunny" Austin, Shields' percentage of errors is a great drawback to his chances of victory. When he strikes a streak, Frank is unbeatable, and, when he gains that much-needed break through in service, he crowds on all sail on his own delivery.

HAS DETERMINATION

Sheer determination has got him to his present position, and that determination may carry him just one step farther, so that he may realize the ambition he so nearly attained in 1930, when he was defeated by Johnny Doeg in the finals at Forest Hills.

Now we come to a man who probably is the finest actual tennis player in the country — Sidney Wood. This frail-looking gentleman from New York has more natural ability than probably any tennis player in the world.

All Sidney's shots, co-ordination of hand, foot and eye—in fact, the whole of his court appearance—suggest the born player. He gains amazing speed on the first serve for so slight a fellow. A backhand second to none, backed up by brilliant volleying from most unorthodox positions, forms the nucleus of his success. The second serve and an apparently awkardly-produced forehand are his only weaknesses.

Sidney's match against Jack Crawford in the Australia-America tie, proved him to be a great general. Throughout the whole match he knew exactly what he wanted to do and he did it so easily that his game seemed nonchalant.

PRAISES WOOD

Sidney is most dangerous when in a difficult situation. He just seems to get all keyed up and produces brilliant tennis. On the other hand, when he gets into a difficult situation against a player whom he should defeat, he's likely to become nervous and pull his shots. That may account for some of his rather surprising defeats.

Although there are many players who are capable of emerging victorious from this national championship, something seems to tell me that the greatest opposition, on paper, appears to come from Wilmer Allison, Frank Shields or Sidney Wood. But there also are many dark horses who are likely to upset the book and find headlines for themselves during the week.

Security Prices Decline Again at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP). — Stocks continued to slip in slow trading today, making the fourth consecutive session of gradual decline.

A heavy tone pervaded most markets as Wall Street tried to peer through the thickening clouds of labor troubles and currency unsettlement for a glimpse of Fall business improvement.

As sterling fell sharply again, touching a new low for the present decline around $5.01, off more than two cents, there was increased apprehension currency depreciation would start a fresh wave of deflation in gold standard countries.

Losses of fractions to about 2 points were general in the stock list at the finish. Dome and McIntyre, among Canadian gold shares, were steady on the advance in the London open market price for gold to a new peak.

Turnover was 649,410 shares.

Armour of Illinois preferred, American Locomotive, Atlantic Coast Line, Brooklyn - Manhattan Transit, General American Transportation, General Railway Signal, Johns Manville, Union Pacific and U.S. Steel preferred were among issues showing losses of 1 to 2 points.

There were only minor changes in grain prices but commodities generally manifested a heavy tone. Cotton sold off for net losses of 70 to 85 cents a bale.

Although the United States dollar was firmer against the French franc and other European gold currencies, another export shipment of $1,300,000 in gold for France was announced.

With the exception of U.S. Government securities and rail liens, which were rather heavy, most price changes in today's bond market were relatively narrow.

Net declines in Governments ranged from 1-32nd to 12-32nds of a point.

Japanese obligations steadied. British bonds sagged.

WHEAT PRICES CHANGE LITTLE

Futures Move in Narrow Range at Winnipeg—Market Quiet

WINNIPEG, Aug. 30 (CP).—Moderate export sales of Canadian wheat, coupled with other support, enabled wheat prices to resist hedging pressure on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, today, and values closed unchanged to 1-8 of a cent higher. October option ended at 81 3-8, December, 82 3-8 to 83 1-2, and May, 86 1-2 to 86 3-8 cents. Generally, the market was quiet.

Country receipts of new-crop wheat, Wednesday, totaled 3,576,000 bushels, compared with 1,373,000 on the same day a year ago. The export sales—500,000 bushels—largely offset this pressure.

Continued demand for Durum wheat featured the cash-grain section. Buying of barley and oats, presumably against export sales, featured coarse grains futures trading.

A Currently Operating and Producing Gold Property
THIS property has a definite history of substantial earnings over a period of years. Based on competent engineers' reports, reasonably assured and probable ore reserves above the 1,235-foot level should be sufficient to keep the 100-ton mill, which should be completed this Fall, in operation for over seven years. In addition to indicated yearly earnings, based on the 100-ton mill, of 15 cents per share (before taxes, depletion and depreciation) the mine has excellent possibilities of developing a much larger production.
We recommend the purchase of these shares. Orders executed through us or through your own broker. Market approximately 50 cents per share.

Virginia Vane Says:

A VICTIM OF TOO MUCH TIDINESS SPEAKS HIS MIND

Dear Virginia Vane: I am interested in the argument about tidiness vs. untidiness.

I believe that the golden mean is to be striven for, of course. But if I were to choose whether to live with a woman just a shade too tidy or just a shade too untidy, I'd pick the latter.

The reason is perhaps that for fifteen years my life has been made miserable by a sister who is a model housekeeper—a hard-working, loyal friend and an absolute pest from morning to night.

It isn't as if she went quietly ahead being tidy and leaving me to enjoy a few untidy little habits. She is blatantly, triumphantly tidy. She advertises her tidiness. She reminds me of it constantly. I have never yet felt comfortable in my home, although I pay the bills and often help with the housework.

And her attitude has got me down. I feel nervous and fidgety under the daily morning inspection. I know that somehow, somewhere, she is going to find fault with my appearance. Her eagle eye detects the one hair out of place, or the one thread on my business suit.

Same way with anything I try to do for her. I know that no pleasure I offer her is as keen as the one she finds in putting to rights some untidiness I have committed. She lives in details, and the ordinary pleasures of life are denied her.

The pathetic part of it is that she tries to cover up her fatal weakness. But she can't. In her heart of hearts she believes that she is fundamentally right and I am fundamentally wrong. When I took her to the theatre to celebrate a big raise, she tried to be happy and share my mood, but her big moment of the evening came when she discovered that the theatre seats were dusty and had soiled her dress. This is undoubtedly an exaggerated case of tidiness, but having lived with it so long, I feel in a position to say that I would rather have to live with some happy-go-lucky untidiness and know some peace and contentment for a while.

Best wishes to your column.—Brother.

Thank you for your interesting letter, Brother. I have worded it somewhat differently from the original in places, but your story is there intact. Maybe there are among my readers a few nerve-ridden wives giving up their lives to system and order who will benefit from the sad case of your efficiency-ruined sister.

Dear Miss Vane: My problem is not a weighty one, but it has caused many arguments in our household, and I should like to hear what you have to say about it.

My wife is a confirmed highbrow, and as she extracts much pleasure from the kind of reading she does, I am heartily in favor of her remaining a highbrow. But she won't let me go my own way.

She pesters me because I read detective and adventure stories, and, because she has a better mind than I have, she has almost convinced me that I am doing wrong in reading this class of fiction. Will you just say a word or two on the subject in your column?—Mr. H.J.

Tell your cultured spouse that great men and women have been reading detective and adventure stories for years and years and that there has never been any reason to believe that this practice in any way impaired their intelligence or robbed them of the power to enjoy great literature.

There is no better relaxation for the tired business man than to plunge himself into a world where there are no love problems, no tiresome business details, no worrying financial situations, but only blood and thunder, baffling murders and false clues.

Your wife probably would be quite tolerant and sympathetic if you spent your evenings working out elaborate problems in arithmetic. And you might explain to her that the good detective story is very like an arithmetical problem—that it calls into play your deductive ability—that it very often requires good logical thinking to work it out.

Tell her that your nightly excursions into the world of adventure and keen-eyed sleuths give you a glad release from the work-a-day world, and that this release has a more beneficial effect on your disposition than she can realize.

She undoubtedly would be in favor of any diet or system of exercises you laid out for yourself in order to keep your nerves soothed. Then ask her why in the name of all that's common sensible she should ban the type of literature which is best suited to making you forget the state of the market and the price of groceries.

A few common-sense arguments will have more weight with her than any attempt on your part to adopt her own lofty tone on the subject of life and literature.

4 CARD OF THANKS

Leonard Acton and family wish to thank their many friends for the messages of sympathy and the floral offerings received during their recent bereavement.

5 IN MEMORIAM

STALKER—To the memory of our friend, Nellie Stalker, who died August 31, 1933.

Friend after friend departs.
Who hath not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts,
That finds not here an end.
Were this frail world our only rest,
Living or dying, none were blessed.
Beyond the flight of time,
Beyond this vale of death,
There surely is some blessed clime
Where life is not a breath.
Nor life's affection transient fire
Whose sparks fly upward to expire.

The traveller had held the floor for two hours, boasting about his exploits.

"There," he said, "was I, nearing the edge of the cliff, moving at a terrific rate. The brakes refused to act. Nothing before me but a horrible death. What could I do? What would you have done?"

"Tried to wake up," said the little man in the corner.

PEDEN TAKES TWO CROWNS

Wins Under 18 and Figures in Doubles—Kewpie Unsworth Triumphs

DUNCAN, Aug. 30.—Finals in the Duncan junior tennis tournament provided close and exciting matches in all events.

In the boys' under eighteen singles, Doug Peden, Victoria, won from Byron Page, Seattle, in three gruelling sets. Page won the first set, 5-7, and in the second set was match-point twice, but was unable to pull off the winning point, and lost the set, 8-6. The third set also took extra games, Peden finally winning, 8-6.

Kewpie Unsworth won from Kay Grogan in a close three-set match. Both girls played very well. Byron Page, who made such a good try for the under eighteen title, was defeated, 6-3, 6-1. Page was obviously exhausted, and was perhaps saving his strength for the boys' under eighteen doubles, in which he was partnered with Ross Reid, Seattle, against Doug Peden and Jones. This was another hard match, which did not finish until after 6:30 o'clock, and was won by Peden and Jones.

Kathleen Staples brought laurels to the Duncan club with her victories in the girls' under sixteen singles, under fourteen singles, and with her twin brother, Tony, in the under fourteen mixed doubles.

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP).—Bill Miller, Philadelphia oarsman, confined to bed with a chill, will not be able to meet Bobby Pearce, of Hamilton, Ont., for the world's professional sculling title for about a week, his doctor said today.

GEHRIG NEARS PACE-SETTER

Yankee Slugger Now Within One Point of Overtaking Paul Waner

While Lou Gehrig lifted his batting average three points, yesterday, and stopped just one short of tying Paul Waner for the Big Six lead, his American League rivals skidded into a three-way tie for fourth place in the sextette as the two who played both lost ground. Gehrig hit three times in four attempts. Heinie Manush lost two points, with no hits in four times up, and Charley Gehringer dropped two with one blow in five tries. This pair slipped into a tie with the idle Al Simmons for the third American League berth. All three National League entries were idle.

EASTERNERS IN TRIUMPH

Touring Cricketers Down St. George's Club by Narrow Margin

WINNIPEG, Aug. 30 (AP).—Extended to the limit by brilliant opposition bowling, a touring Eastern Canada cricket eleven today defeated St. George's Cricket Club, of Winnipeg, by the narrow margin of two runs. The closing score was Eastern Canada, 88; St. George's, 86.

The outcome gave the Easterners a clean sweep in their two-game series with the homesters. They won a one-day match here Wednesday by the impressive margin of 199 runs. The next stand of the tourists will be made at Regina.

P. Seagram and K. H. Ross opened the Eastern Canada innings. Batting confidently, they ran up 30 runs in 15 minutes. Both played a cautious wicket, but batted all around with careful strokes. The pair continued their stand until 45 runs were on the board, when Ross fell, a victim to Turnbull, for 27 runs.

E. Loney and "Slush" Harris made a courageous stand in the closing minutes of the game. Batting steadily on a tricky wicket, they carried the score past the total amassed by the locals, to eke out victory by the narrowest of margins.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Final arrangements were made last evening by Manager Wattellet, of the Royal Athletic Park, to stage a three-cornered race over the fifteen-mile distance, here, on the morning of Labor Day, between Alex Rowan, the Nanaimo wonder, Con. Hubberennette, who was Pacific Coast amateur champion until he turned professional two weeks ago, and William Stanley, of San Francisco, who made some wonderful performances in the Northwest, recently.

Once again "play ball" will be the cry at the Royal Athletic Park, for, on the afternoon of Labor Day, the Victoria nine will meet the representative J.B.A.A. ball team in the initial game of a series of three contests that will be played here soon.

The Victoria Lacrosse Club will hold a meeting, this evening, at the Victoria Sporting Goods Company, Douglas Street, when the challenge from the North Wards will be considered. It is quite probable that a series of games will be arranged in the near future.

"Take it from me, when my nine goes up against the Victoria twirlers, on Labor Day, they will be in shape to put up the game of the season, and if they don't win I won't be the only club member disappointed," was a message sent by V. K. Gray, by wireless to Wattellet, last evening, after practice. The hustling J.B.A.A. secretary sure thinks the Bay team is some pumpkins. Why shouldn't he after the way they have shown up at practice lately.

The crews for the regatta that is to be held at the Gorge one week from the coming Saturday, will be selected by the boating committee, at the meeting, to be held in the local clubrooms this evening. Secretary William Kennedy announced that all those who have not yet signed the list on the J.B.A.A. bulletin board should do so sometime today as all the crews will be selected this evening.

Next Monday is the day of celebration at Nanaimo, and Secretary Sampson, of the Nanaimo Athletic Club, announced that a large number of athletes have sent in their entries for the various events.

WILL REVIVE BOXING HERE

Newly-Formed Victoria Athletic Club Bills Card for September 15

Amateur boxing is to be revived here this Winter, and, judging by the interest being taken in the game by local Simon-pure glove throwers, the venture is almost certain to be crowned with success. The inaugural show will be staged on Saturday, September 15, at the Broad Street gymnasium of the Tillicum Athletic Club, and under the auspices of the Victoria Athletic Club, the Capital City's latest addition to its lengthy list of sports organizations.

Charlie Morton, who has been one of the main organizers of the new club, and Tommy Drysdale, well-known local fighter and trainer for the Victoria Athletic Club, are putting in many long hours in the interest of the game, and both are confident of the ultimate success of amateur fighting in this city. Approximately forty boys are at present undergoing training, and these include, in addition to a number of entirely new ring products, youngsters who have on many previous occasions appeared before Victoria's fighting public.

The gymnasium of the club is located at the Armories, Bay Street, and an open invitation from Charlie Morton is extended to any boy or young man to join the club and take up the study of the art of self-defence. The gymnasium, when completed, will be the most up-to-date one on the Coast, and is open each evening, except Saturday, from 7:30 o'clock on.

BOYS TRAINING

Some of the boys already in training include: Charlie Jordan, British Columbia lightweight champion; Billy Foulds, former featherweight titleholder; Bob Parker, Muzz Patrick, Dick Attwood, Lyall Pellam, Desmond Horrigan, Alex Webster, Jimmy Winger, Art Coates, Dick Warburton, George Smythe and Doug Kaiser. These fighters are from the Victoria Athletic Club, the Y.M.C.A. and the Canadian Scottish, and are expected to show on the initial programme. Fighters from the Canadian Scottish are being drilled in the finer points of the game by Dave Lewis, who a few years ago was in the limelight in the box fighting game.

Ten bouts, which will introduce novices making their ring debut, and a number of well-known boxers, will be presented at the club's inaugural show. A battle round will also be on the programme.

Cricket Halted Again

CANTERBURY, England, Aug. 30 (CP).—Continued rains and a saturated wicket, today, again caused postponement of the touring Australians' cricket game with Kent County players. The game opened yesterday and was discontinued on account of the wet weather, after the visiting bowlers had dismissed two Kent batters for twenty-one runs.

SPAVEN WINS CADDIE TITLE

Youthful Bag Carrier Captures Crown at Colwood With Fine Card

Bagging three birdies on the outgoing nine, which he traveled over in even par, and then playing steadily on the incoming route, Bobby Spavan, youthful bag-carrier, captured the annual caddies' championship of the Royal Colwood Golf Club, yesterday, by turning in a brilliant round of 75, which his five handicap reduced to a net 70. The newly-crowned titleholder finished two strokes in front of the field, and turned in the best card in caddie history at Colwood. G. Haylock and L. Baker tied for the next two positions with net scores of 72, while L. Derman was next in order with a 73. The rest of the contenders were well bunched.

Spaven played like a real champion on the first nine, caging a trio of birdies and going over par on three other occasions, to reach the half-way mark in 35. He parred the rest of the holes. The champion got a birdie three at the second and dropped putts for deuces at the fourth and seventh holes. Spaven came back in 40, going over par on four different holes. The caddies wish to thank the lady members for scoring and the members of the club for prizes.

Spaven's gross card follows:

Out .... 5 3 4 2 5 5 2 4 5—35
In .... 6 4 5 4 5 4 4 4 4—40—75

Peter Rabbit Hurts a Foot

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS—

My! How his foot did hurt!

Peter Rabbit was dodging this way and dodging that way while behind him ran Bowser the Hound, making a tremendous noise with his great voice. Of course all the little meadow and forest people heard Bowser, and they knew what it meant. They knew that Peter Rabbit was doing just as he had said he would do, and was leading Bowser the Hound to the hiding place of Reddy Fox. "Now we shall have some peace in the Green Forest," said Johnny Chuck as he sat on his doorstep and listened to Bowser's great voice. "I do hope that no harm will come to Peter Rabbit. It would make me dreadfully nervous to know that Bowser was following my tracks like that. I suppose that Peter Rabbit is so used to being chased that he really doesn't mind," he added.

To tell the truth, Peter wasn't so very much worried over Bowser the Hound. He had fooled Bowser so often that he had no fear that he would not be able to fool him again. Then there was the old brier patch into which he could run if Bowser got too near. Bowser never, never could catch him there. What worried Peter was the dreadful duty which had been given him by the other little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. He was to lead Bowser the Hound to the hiding place of Reddy Fox, so that Bowser would tell his master and then his master would stop hunting and putting the lives of all little meadow and forest people in danger.

But Peter Rabbit couldn't bear to think of being the one to give up Reddy Fox, so instead of going right straight away to the hiding place of Reddy Fox, Peter played hide and seek with Bowser among the bushes on the edge of the Green Forest, trying to think of some way to save Reddy Fox. He was thinking so hard that he did not look sharply where he was going. Suddenly a sharp pain in his left hind foot made Peter squeal right out. He had stepped on the ugly barb of a piece of wire fence hidden in the long grass.

My, how his foot did hurt! Peter sat down and looked at it. It was bleeding, and he felt as if he just couldn't step on it. But there was Bowser the Hound. Peter started off on three legs for the old brier patch. It is slow work running on three legs. Bowser the Hound was gaining at every step. Peter wondered if he ever, ever would reach the dear old brier patch. It seemed to him as if Bowser's deep "Bow-wow" was right at his heels. Peter gave two more frightened jumps, and there right in front of him was one of his own little secret paths into the old brier patch.

Bowser the Hound didn't like briers. He stuck his head into the old brier patch and then he pulled it out again and roared angrily. Two or three times Bowser tried it, and each time a sly old bramble, a friend of Peter Rabbit, reached out and scratched one of Bowser's long ears. Each time Bowser yelped. Finally he gave up in disgust, and off he went muttering to himself in a deep voice.

Peter Rabbit, nursing his sore foot in the heart of the old brier patch, heard Bowser go away and chuckled. Then he thought of something that made him almost forget the pain in his foot. He wouldn't be able to show Bowser the Hound where Reddy Fox was hiding. Right down in his heart Peter was glad—he was glad that he had hurt his foot.
